Is Indicted on Printing
Contracts

New York, Feb. 13 (AP)—Tammany District Leader William Solomon, accused by a witness in the Louis (Lepke) Buchalter labor racket trial of accepting $1,500 as part of a payoff for settlement of a bakery strike, was indicted today on charges of bribery and extortion.

Charles H. Mullens, assistant state comptroller, also was indicted on the charges growing out of an investigation into state and city printing contracts.

At the same time, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's office disclosed that two officers of the Burland Printing Company had been indicted in connection with their personal state income taxes for 1937.

Nature of Counts

The seven counts in the indictment against Solomon and Mullens include three charging bribery, three charging acceptance of unlawful fees as public officers and one charging extortion.

Solomon and Mullens were arrested in the office of the district attorney's racket bureau which has conducted the inquiry into printing contracts.

The names of the printing concern officers indicted were not disclosed pending their arrest.

Solomon, an influential Tammanyite as leader of the 17th assembly district in the upper East Side, was mentioned yesterday in the current Lepke trial as the recipient of part of the strike settlement fund.

His accuser was Max Rubin, a former labor union agent who survived a bullet in the head to repeat in court that he handed Solomon $1,500 of the sum he said was paid to settle the strike.

Lepke and two co-defendants are on trial for extortion.

Rubin testified yesterday he paid Solomon the money after Sam Miller, a director of the Gottfried Baking Company, offered $15,000 to end a company strike.

Rubin, who said he was a collector for the first time in its history, was taken for a ride in the fall of 1937, shot through the head and left for dead. The bullet left him with a permanently twisted neck.

Lepke and the others are accused of extorting large sums from the bakery industry.

Secret Boudoir Is Found In War Ministry Blue Room

Paris, Feb. 13 (AP)—A secret boudoir, possibly dating back 200 years to the time of the Duke of Richelieu, a marshal of France whose amours and duels twice got him imprisoned in the Bastille, was discovered today in the war ministry's famous "Blue" room.

A door, concealed in panelling, was revealed when decorators were repairing the walls of the room where strategy of the present war is mapped. Stepping inside the secret annex, the workers found a dusty divan and mirror.

The building was once occupied by the duke, whose reputation as a gentleman of fashion at the court of Louis XV was rivaled by his fame as a soldier. A grand nephew of the great Cardinal Richelieu, he served in the wars of the Polish and Austrian successions. He died in 1788 at the age of 92.

Broun Is Eulogized

New York, Feb. 13 (AP)—Karl Virack, favorite writer of the late Heywood Broun, says the columnist "was a liberal—and a liberal upper, too." An overflow crowd of 12,000—additional thousands were turned away—jammed a mid-town auditorium last night to hear water, cab driver and celebrity eulogize the founder and president of the American Newspaper Guild. Personal effects of the columnist, who died of pneumonia two months ago, were auctioned, along with autographed books sent by John Steinbeck, Ernest Hemingway, Pearl Buck, Carl Sandburg, Eugene O'Neill and other authors. The memorial meeting, sponsored by the Newspaper Guild, launched a movement for the establishment of a Broun endowment for newspaper achievement awards.

Two Men Are Held On Gaming Charge

Pair Is Said to Have Been Operating Gambling
Room in City

Harry Steinman, 41, of 555 Broadway, and William Van Dyke, 38, a negro of 49 Van Buren street, were arrested this morning by the police on charges of being common gamblers. Later in police court they waived examination and were held to await the action of the grand jury. Judge Matthew V. Cahill fixed bail at $200 each.

According to the police both men were accused of operating a gambling room on the second floor of the building at 13 Green-cliff avenue. The men are charged with operating poker games on the premises.

Information against the men was obtained by the police which led to warrants being issued this morning which were served on Steinman and Van Dyke by Acting Lieutenant Ernest A. Boss.

Apartment House Burns

Yonkers, N. Y., Feb. 13 (AP)—A four-alarm fire today gutted three units of the four-story Custer Arms apartments, Palmer and Parkview avenues, parallel to the Bronx River Driveway. Three other units of the $310,000 U-shaped building were damaged as the fire spread so rapidly the Yonkers fire department got outside aid for the first time in its history. Fireman Charles Gengebach was taken to Lawrence Hospital for treatment when hot tar fell in his eye, but the women and children of 76 families in the red-brick, English-type building escaped or were carried down ladders without injury.

Would Swap Routes

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy said today he would take back to London a proposal for "swapping" certain British and American shipping routes, which would result in putting idle American ships to work again. He expected to talk over his plan with President Roosevelt later today, he said.

Calendar Made

A civil calendar was made up in county court today for next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The following civil cases were placed on the day calendar: Nos. 24, 33, 36, 38, 44, 59, 60 and 50.

Wild Dog Pack Attacks Cow,

Navara Street Man Reports

A pack of wild dogs is creating excitement on Navara street and vicinity, and Monday the police department received a telephone call from Louis Navara that the pack was attacking a cow on that street.

An alarm was sent out over the police radio which was picked up by one of the radio cars on Abel street. When the car reached Navara street the pack of dogs had disappeared in the direction of Golden Hill.

The same pack of dogs recently attacked a dog owned by Mr. Navara and bit the animal so severely that it had to be shot by the police.

If the pack is still at large when the newly appointed dog warden assumes his duties later in the month, it will afford him an excellent opportunity to display his skill in breaking up and destroying the pack.

According to Mr. Navara there are about seven or eight dogs in the pack.

Montclair Will Decide What to Do

With $500,000 Treasury Surplus

Montclair, N. J., Feb. 13 (AP)—What to do with a $500,000 surplus in the town treasury was the question posed today for 10,000 taxpayers by the five-man board of commissioners.

Each of the taxpayers received a letter signed by Mayor William E. Speers and the director of revenue, Bayard H. Faulkner, telling of the town's strong financial position and asking what they would like done with the surplus.

The letter asked:

"What do you think? Would you rather reduce the town's debt another $100,000, leaving $400,000 to cut down 1940 taxes—or cut 1940 taxes for the full amount?"

Postcards—postage paid—were enclosed for the answers.

Mayor Speers, a Republican, told the taxpayers the 1940 tax bill would be $3,213,000—a decrease of about $500,000 from 1939—giving the town the lowest tax rate in 13 years.

Bail Continues

Sargent Was Arrested in October Upon Release
From Hospital

Quay Sargent, 21, of Hotel King's Court, Poughkeepsie, was arraigned in County Court this morning on two charges of criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle resulting in death.

Both charges grew out of a crash at Esopus on September 22 last, when a Buick car operated by Sargent collided with a Hudson car operated by Edgar Windingstad of West Hurley. Windingstad, who was driving from New York to his home, was instantly killed and next day Thomas V. Murray, Jr., of Poughkeepsie, died. Murray was one of five passengers in the Sargent car.

Under indictment 2707, Sargent was charged with the death of Murray and indictment No. 2708 charges the death of Windingstad.

Stay Is Granted

Chris J. Flanagan appeared for Sargent and a plea of not guilty was entered. Mr. Flanagan asked for a continuance of the $1,500 bail and asked that he be given 20 days to make further motions.

The request was granted.

Sargent was driving the Buick car southerly from the Coq D'Or at Port Ewen en route to New Paltz to take two Normal School girls back home when near the Esopus Catholic Church his car and that of Windingstad collided. The Windingstad car was proceeding northerly. Windingstad was instantly killed and Murray and Sargent were injured. Charles Helms of Katonah, Clair Irene Clark of Poughkeepsie and Betty Ortez also were injured.

Sargent was arrested on his discharge from the hospital on October 15 by John Metzger and L. Baker of the State Police B. C. I. and held in $1,500 bail on a criminal negligence charge. Later the grand jury returned indictments. The sealed bills were opened this morning by District Attorney N. LeVan Haver and Sargent pleaded not guilty to both charges.

Gives His Savings

Tuskegee, Ala., Feb. 13 (AP)—To perpetuate his work in creative chemistry, Dr. George Washington Carver, negro scientist, today gave all his savings—$33,000—to a foundation established in his name. Born a slave, Dr. Carver has become internationally known by developing new industrial uses for agricultural products.

Since January 1, 1936, the mayor added, when he and his four colleagues, three Republicans and one Democrat, took office the town's debt has been reduced by $1,685,000.

Once before the commission used a letter canvass in helping write the town budget.

In 1939 letters were sent to 10,000 residents asking guidance on proposed reductions in the library, garbage removal, health and street lighting appropriations. Returns from 2,500 persons favored reducing library and garbage removal items. The advice was followed.

The 1939 census set Montclair's population at 42,017. Many of its citizens, like the mayor, commute to New York business offices daily.

State's Motorists Renew Fight for Cut in Gasoline Tax

Thousands of taxpayers from all parts of New York state descended upon Albany yesterday, registering their protest of increased taxes in Governor Lehman's budget. Typical of the large groups who marched into the capital city for the public hearing at the state armory, was the above delegation of motorists who urged a slash in the gasoline tax. The group of citizens is pictured marching past the state capitol and the state office building, en route to the state armory.

Admiral Stark Fears World War; Russians Claim 16 Forts Captured

Magnitude of Warfare
Spreads in Finland;
Britain Increases
Aerial Forces

(By The Associated Press)

European warfare focussed today on Finland's Mannerheim Line where the Red army claimed capture of 61 Finnish defensive fortifications within a week, though the Finns maintained their defenses were holding against the Russian invasion.

Communications from both sides pieced together a war picture of increasing magnitude as artillery thundered along the Karelian isthmus, scene of the conflict's heaviest fighting.

Russia said 32 fortifications were wrested from the Finns yesterday, among them 12 iron and concrete artillery forts, and huge quantity of armaments captured.

Finland made no mention of losing fortifications, but the Finns say their Mannerheim Line is sufficiently intact to stave off the Red army assaults which spread along the length of the isthmus front.

One source said five Russian divisions—each of about 15,000 men—were being thrown against the Summa sector alone. The brunt of recent Soviet attacks has been on this sector.

The question of financial aid to Finland was scheduled for a vote in the United States Senate after winding up debate on a measure which would double the $100,000,000 capital of the Export-Import Bank.

Passage of the bill would make possible loans to both Finland and China.

Scouting Planes Active

French sources reported that British scouting planes had flown over northwest Germany where they ran into German fighting ships. All the British aircraft returned safely to their French bases, however.

The allies intend to concentrate their blockade examinations on American exports to neutral nations bordering Germany, French military sources reported, saying it was more than coincidence that pre-war American trade figures have doubled and trebled with these smaller nations.

The allies indicated belief that much of this increase was due to imports destined for trans-shipment to Germany.

Britain bent new efforts toward warding off the German mine and bomb blockade of her coast by expanding the royal air force and recruiting 10,000 additional fishermen for patrol duty.

Though a big airplane construction program is in progress, the British are buying planes—mostly of the heavier type—from the United States and another nation described cautiously as "an air-skilled neutral."

The royal air force issued a call for more radio experts to help with the elaborate air defense system.

New York Pastor Speaks at Dinner For Fathers, Sons

Dr. J. J. Henry's Address
Based on Lincoln's Life;
More Than 150 Attend
Annual Banquet

The Rev. J. J. Henry, former superintendent of the Newburgh District of the New York Conference and for the past nine years pastor of the Park Avenue Methodist Church, New York city, was the speaker at the men's club second annual father and son banquet held at St. James Methodist Church Monday night.

Dr. Henry, who is recognized as one of the ablest men in the denomination and a speaker of outstanding eloquence, was greeted with long and hearty applause from the 150 or more diners as he concluded his very fine address on "Lincoln the Man of the Hour," and received a second tribute later as the audience rose to extend to him a vote of thanks for making the trip to Kingston and speaking on the occasion.

Dr. Julian I. Gifford, who presided at the banquet, called on Dr. J. W. Chasey, superintendent of the Kingston district, to give the invocation, following the singing of America. A fine dinner, prepared under direction of James Lyon of Shandaken, was served by the ladies of the church.

There was general singing during the evening, led by Samuel J. Scudder, Jr., with Mrs. Julius Gifford at the piano and Robert Hawley, Drs. Julian and Julius Gifford and Sam Scudder gave a quartet, while C. Ray Everett joined the group in an encore number. "Smiling Bob Anderson" gave a couple of solos with guitar accompaniment Sam Scudder played some accordion selections and Mr. Hermance gave a guitar and harmonica number. Magician Fred Van Deusen also appeared on the program, giving a number of his most mysterious tricks.

Principal Clarence L. Dumm of the Kingston High School was introduced and spoke briefly on a schoolmaster's view of the father and son relationship. Speaking from an experience of 40 years Mr. Dumm said that "the greatest problem of today is the youth problem." He found it a complicated one and concluded with Edgar A. Guest's poem, "A Father's Wish," emphasizing the line, "I only hope he'll be a man."

Dr. Henry, who was introduced by his old friend, the Rev. A. G. Carroll, then gave his eloquent tribute to Abraham Lincoln, the man who, "peculiarly endowed," faced "the greatest crisis in the history of his country up to this time"; and whose influence and reputation have spread in the intervening years so that those who hated him have come to recognize his greatness and enshrine him as one of the outstanding figures of the time.

Naval Operations Chief Thinks United States Is More Seriously Linked to War

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—The navy high command believes that the possibility of a general European war and uncertain conditions in the Far East threaten to produce a world conflagration.

Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, told a house appropriations subcommittee in testimony made public today that the international situation is "fraught with more possibilities" affecting the United States than in 1914 and 1915.

"The ultimate aims and ambitions of Germany, Russia and Italy can not be definitely determined, nor can the public utterances of their governments be accepted at face value," Stark said.

"Such conditions render likely the possibilities of a general European war and, in conjunction with Far-Eastern conditions, they threaten a world conflagration."

Rep. Ditter (R., Pa.) asked whether the navy's preparedness is greater than in 1914-16.

"I think it is far better," Stark said, "but I believe the international setup to be fraught with more possibilities against us than was the case in the early stages of the World War. This in turn tends to offset our better preparedness."

Representing Economics

Asserting that the navy's request for $954,000,000 for the next fiscal year represented all possible economies, Stark told the committee:

"It would in my opinion jeopardize the national security to reduce the number of vessels and aircraft recommended for active service, to fail to man the fleet effectively, to curtail its training, or to curtail or delay the building."

Republican's Emphasize Enterprise

And Freedom in Campaign Talks

(By The Associated Press)

Republican leaders rallied their party for the presidential campaign last night with Lincoln Day appeals to encourage private enterprise and keep the American government free from dictatorship.

While former President Hoover was declaring that the United States must abandon a "national drift toward statism," active and potential presidential candidates were criticizing the New Deal and forecasting a Republican victory in November.

Senator Van Denberg (R-Mich.), speaking at Grand Rapids, Mich., described Abraham Lincoln as "our first coalition President." He said that Lincoln's re-election in 1864 by "all like-thinkers, regardless of party affiliations," set the pattern for 1940.

Senate Proposes Survey to Learn Business Status

Group Would Determine
How Much Is Being Driven Out of State by Taxes

Levy Is 'Killed'

Legislative Leaders Say
Hearing Yesterday Was Effective

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 13 (AP)—A legislative investigation to determine how much business is being "driven out of the state" and to combat such losses was proposed in New York's Senate today.

The proposal carries out recommendations of a legislative committee on industrial and labor relations which reported a business "exodus" and came amid numerous suggestions for probing of state contracts, the "high cost" of education, and the state government generally.

The seven-member committee suggested by Republican Senator Allan Ryan, Dutchess county, would survey:

The extent industries and businesses are leaving New York and what the Legislature may do to encourage business.

The advantages or disadvantages of accessibility to markets, availability of supplies, and existing banking and credit facilities.

Agencies in competitive states now performing functions to encourage business enterprise.

"Business creates jobs, produces goods and income and pays taxes," Ryan said. "Wage earners want jobs, not relief, and these jobs can only be created on a permanent basis by stimulation of private industry."

Approves Bill

The Assembly unanimously approved and sent to the Senate today a bill embodying Governor Lehman's recommendation to permit savings banks to invest in limited dividend projects under the public housing law.

The measure, sponsored by Assemblyman Abbot Low Moffat, New York city Republican, would restrict banks in their investments, however, by conditions set forth by the state banking board.

The Assembly also approved, 106 to four, a bill of Assembly Majority Leader Irving Ives, Norwich Republican, to make mandatory rather than permissive the State Labor Relations Board's investigation of "any question or controversy" arising over representation of employees.

The House likewise sent to the Senate a bill designed to clear the way for the labor board to obtain voluntary adjustments and compliance with terms of the act.

Income Tax "Killed"

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 13 (AP)—Echoes of New York's greatest protest against governmental spending sounded the death knell today of a proposed $15,000,000 personal income tax boom and virtually assured a reduction of suggested $396,700,000 state appropriations.

This was the opinion of legislative financial leaders who listened 13 hours until 1 o'clock (E. S. T.) this morning to arguments assailing and defending the proposed 1940-41 budget-tax agenda drafted by Democratic Governor Lehman after "political truce" conferences with Republican majority legislative chieftains.

"The tax is definitely dead and a reduction seems certain," said the veteran white-haired Senator George Thompson, chairman of the Senate finance committee. "I don't see how we can do anything else after all this pressure."

Assemblyman Maurice Whitney, Rensselaer county Republican, asserted:

"I don't see what there is to stop us killing the proposed income tax rise and pass the budget as now drafted in the hope business may improve the next fiscal year and provide us the $15,000,000 more without new taxation."

Another influential Republican assemblyman, James W. Wadsworth, Livingston county, predicted the income tax boost bill "will never come up."

Just now a reduction can be made and that course seems preferred to approving an "unbalanced" document in hope of improved business the next year—a matter of conjecture and appeared likely to become subject to lengthy conferences threatening hopes of a mid-March adjournment.

Would Renew Talks

Willingness to renew discussions on the state's fiscal program, which if adopted as drafted would be second highest ever has been voiced by both Lehman and Republican legislative chieftains.

Most legislators oppose any upward revision of revenue estimates to balance the budget without increased taxation, as did many of the approximately 300 speakers who strode to a temporary platform in a huge Albany armory yesterday and last night to voice their opinions in financial matters.

Legislators opined privately

House Takes Huge Slice From Naval Budget for Year

Sum of $11,699,699 Is Cut
From F.D.R.'s Budget;
Also Cuts Contract
Authorizations

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—A $11,699,699 slash was made in President Roosevelt's budget for the navy today by a House committee which recommended appropriations of $966,772,878 and urged that the nation build battleships and cruisers "superior" to those abroad.

The cut, from the President's figure of $1,078,472,577, was the largest yet made by the appropriations committee in any single budget recommendation, but the committee said the fleet's needs could be "adequately met" with the smaller sum.

Included in the measure was $1,000,000 to start work on a $3,000,000 project designed to develop the tiny Pacific Island of Guam as a naval "lookout" post.

Guam improvements were turned down by Congress last year after a heated controversy involving questions of foreign policy toward Japan.

Cuts Contracts

In sending the navy bill to the House floor the committee also cut $16,316,250 from the amount of "contract authorizations" recommended in the budget. With such authorizations the navy may contract for work to be paid for later. Thus the total decrease in the amount the navy could spend or obligate in the fiscal year beginning July 1 amounted to $128,015,949.

Several Persons Arraigned In County Court on Writs

Several arraignments were made this morning in County Court before Judge Frederick G. Traver, when sealed indictments handed up by the December and January grand juries were opened.

Albert Pross, charged with having entered a grill on Third avenue, Kingston, pleaded not guilty to a charge of burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, alleged to have taken place November 8, last. Chris J. Flanagan appeared for defendant and asked for 20 days time to make motions and also for continuance of bond.

Jack Goldstein, Morris Levine and Anthony Alfano were arraigned on a charge of being common gamblers, a violation of Section 970, and pleaded not guilty. The charge grows out of a raid on a gambling room at Kerhonkson on November 16 last. Bail in the sum of $250 was continued. The trio said they would engage their own lawyer.

Charged With Assault

John Cunningham of Kingston was charged with assault, second degree, growing out of an affair at a Main street restaurant last September. It was charged that Cunningham struck Albert Jones, breaking his jaw. James Connelly appeared for defendant and asked that bail be continued, that 20 days be given to make further motions and also that he be supplied with a copy of the indictment. His motion was granted.

Steve Kearney of Glencliff Lake Park and Ernest Chaitore were arraigned on a charge of possession of a loaded pistol in violation of Section 1892, Subdivision 5-a. It is charged that they had been involved in an affair at a North Front street tavern on November 18, last. Pleas of not guilty were entered and bail was continued. Kearney said he had no attorney and Hugh Elwyn was assigned. J. Edward Conway, by Louis Bruhn, appeared for Chaitore.

Pleads Not Guilty

Arthur Elting, charged with criminally receiving stolen property, was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. Chris J. Flanagan appeared for Elting. Ellen Ryan and Goldie Lane, two companions of Elting on October 17, were also arraigned on charges of grand larceny, first degree. Pleas of not guilty were entered. Mr. Flanagan asked for copies of the indictment and that bail be continued. The charge is that the trio were at Ruby on the evening of October 17 and visited a restaurant there. Later the articles were found and the trio was arrested. Louis Bruhn appeared for Goldie Lane and asked that the bail be continued and that he be given 20 days to make further motions.

Samuel and Pauline Loy of Kingston pleaded not guilty to four counts charging arson, second degree, arising out of the burning of a building owned by Loy and Pauline on November 15. The closed building had been used as a dance hall. Chris J. Flanagan appeared and asked for continuance of bail, a copy of the indictment and that he have 20 days to make further motions.

Lawrence Schryver, 16, of 49 St. James street, was indicted on a charge of entering a building on November 2, last, and pleaded not guilty. Louis Bruhn, who appeared for J. Edward Conway, for defendant, asked bail be continued.

Schryver together with Norman Breitenstein, 21, of 61 Cedar street and Charles Van Gaasbeck, 20, of 720 Broadway, were also charged with unlawful entry to a building on December 13. It is charged they entered the house of Mrs. Louise M. Klock, 243 Albany avenue and took out a quantity of articles which they attempted to dispose of. They had been held in $100 bail each. Pleas of not guilty were entered. Breitenstein and Van Gaasbeck said they had no attorney and Harry Gold was assigned. Bail was continued.

An indictment charging Alonzo Burger with rape, second degree, was dismissed on application of Chris J. Flanagan, who appeared for Burger. He said that he had a marriage certificate dated October 15, 1939, under which Edna M. Hutton and Burger had been married. The Edna M. Hutton named in the certificate he said was the complainant. District Attorney Haver consented to the dismissal.

Barton Case Put Over

At the opening of court the case of The People vs. Edith D. Barton was moved over until Thursday at the request of Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, who has been assigned to the defendant. Mr. Conway is engaged in Albany. Miss Barton is charged with grand larceny and forgery. This was the first case on the criminal calendar. James H. Bowman of Walden, charged with burglary, third degree and unlawful entry, changed a former plea of not guilty to one of guilty to unlawful entry. Sentence will be imposed Thursday at 2 o'clock. When Bowman was asked the usual questions, he gave his age as 16. This would make him age 15 at the time of the commission of the crime charged. Chris J. Flanagan, who appeared for Bowman, said he had the birth certificate which showed the lad was born November 1, 1922.

District Attorney Haver asked that the certificate be produced since he did not want to have a conviction entered against a lad who was under 16. Later Mr. Flanagan produced the certificate for the court. A jury was taken in an action brought by The People of the State of New York against Marino Palisi, grocery store proprietor, an action to collect a penalty. Elmer H. Nathan appeared for the complainant and there was no defense. The state seeks to recover a penalty of $100 for an alleged display of eggs in the market which displayed the sign "strictly fresh, grade B." This is a violation of the state egg law. Judge Traver recessed court until 2 o'clock.

New Method Found

New York, Feb. 13 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, Jr., and a group of west coast associates announced today a new method of prospecting for oil. A pint of earth, dug from within a few feet of the surface, gives them direct signs of oil fields that may be buried 10,000 feet below. This is done with the mass spectrograph, a recent scientific instrument which outdoes the tricks of magicians and which never before has been put to commercial use.

New Dance Team

New York, Feb. 13 (AP)—Arturo Godoy and his wife Leda have formed a ballroom dance team. The Chilean fighter who lasted 15 rounds with Joe Louis will show his prowess at the tango, the conga and the rumba, with the tall, pretty Buenos Aires brunette he married eight months ago.

Southern Ulster Robberies Listed

B. C. I. Investigators Metzger and Baker list the following burglaries in southern Ulster during the past three years in which, they state, the three young men from Walden, arrested last week, admit having participated in, either separately or working together:

Summer home, town of Shawangunk, belonging to W. L. Smith of Bogota, N. J., February, 1937.

Summer home, town of Gardiner, belonging to E. A. Herick of Brooklyn. Entered twice, in April, 1938, and in January, 1939.

Summer home, town of Shawangunk, belonging to Alexander J. Doscher of Flushing, L. I. Fall of 1938.

Summer home, town of Gardiner, belonging to Alexander Rosenbaum. Fall of 1938.

Summer home, town of Plattekill, belonging to Raphael Clark of Long Island City. December, 1938.

Farm house of Richard Meredith, town of Shawangunk, August 25, 1939.

Summer home, town of Shawangunk, belonging to Walter Sivert of New York city. October 29, 1939.

Tool shed belonging to George Vandewater of Walden, located near Minnewaska in the town of Gardiner. February 7, 1940.

The three men being held are Gilbert Schoonmaker, 25, Frank Scott, 24, and Daniel Cooley, 20, all of Walden. Cooley, it is understood, was implicated in comparatively few of the burglaries. The three are being held for appearance before the grand jury on charges of burglary in the third degree.

Special Police Watch
Paris, Feb. 13 (AP)—The foreign ministry announced today that a special police watch had been installed over the Soviet embassy in Paris in disregard of its diplomatic immunity because of its "relations" with the outlawed French Communist party.

In making over an old house, it is prudent always to have the heating system not only inspected, but remeasured and its calculations checked. Any well-built modern home can usually be trusted to have a well-designed heating arrangement, particularly if it is equipped with forced-air furnace heating, and winter air conditioning. But less was known in earlier years about the correct size, shape and location of warm air ducts and wall stacks; and even if the system was well designed for the house as it was first built the alterations you are making may affect the balance of the heating system more than you realize.

Boy Is Injured While Coasting

Robert Cable, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Cable of the Marlborough town was injured seriously Monday afternoon while sleigh riding at Markle Heights some distance from his home. Brought to the Kingston Hospital later his condition was found to be so serious that it was necessary for Dr. Joseph Jacobson and Dr. John Krom to operate.

The lad was badly hurt about the right side when his sleigh struck a tree as he and his 14-year-old brother, Franklin, were coasting.

At the hospital today his condition was reported as serious.

Sheriff Molyneux was notified of the accident by the hospital when the boy arrived there last evening. He and Deputy Sheriff Vredenburg made an investigation.

The two boys had left their home and gone to Markle Heights to coast when the sled ran into a tree injuring Robert. His brother was uninjured. At the time the lad's father was in Kingston but later when he returned home he had the boy brought to the hospital. The accident happened about 5 o'clock and the youth was taken home after the accident and placed in bed until brought to the hospital.

The car, according to the police, crashed into the porch of the former Huling apartments on North Front street, damaging the porch. Smith will be arraigned Wednesday in police court.

Financial and Commercial

Financial Leaders And Employees at Budget Hearing

Participating in the budget hearing, in which a crowd of over 6,500 taxpayers gathered in the armory at Albany, were some 60 employees and leaders from the financial district of New York. Spokesmen for the group were William McC.

Martin, Jr., president of the New York Stock Exchange and Albert C. Beeson, chairman of the Employers Committee from Lower Manhattan and president of the Association of Customers Brokers.

Mr. Martin told the legislative committee that the transfer tax places "the securities exchanges of New York state at a great disadvantage in comparison with exchanges of other states."

Speaking for the workers in Wall Street, Mr. Beeson said that the dominant position of the New York Stock Exchange would in time be undermined if a change in the transfer tax was not made.

To ease the competitive disadvantages in which it places markets in this state with exchanges elsewhere, Speakers claimed that a growing proportion of the business here is being lost to other states.

The S.E.C. yesterday handed down a formal opinion approving the issuance by Dayton Power & Light Co. of $25,000,000 of three per cent bonds, due in 1970. The opinion revealed an interest on the part of at least two commissioners in the form of underwriting contract used by Morgan Stanley & Co., on the offering and strengthened the probability that there would be a new S.E.C. rule requiring utility companies to "shop around" among investment bankers, or call for competitive bids, before awarding an underwriting contract. The action was of especial interest as clarifying the S.E.C. stand on bonds vs. common stock issues for securing new money, since on December 28 the commission refused to allow Consumers Power Co. to raise $10,000,000 of new money by selling bonds. It is indicated that the debt situation is a prime factor in the commission's consideration.

The Temporary National Economic Committee, at present studying life insurance companies and procedure, was told yesterday by Chairman Buckner of the New York Life that the first concern of insurance companies must be security of investment and that therefore more attention must be paid to diversification and quality than to return in determining proper life insurance investments.

The U. S. Supreme Court yesterday reaffirmed its view that National Labor Relations Board findings are final in that federal courts cannot substitute their own judgment of facts for the judgment of the board in labor cases arising under the Wagner Act. The decision came on an appeal by the labor board from a circuit court's refusal to enforce an order of the board against the Waterman Steamship Co. which would require the company to reinstate with back pay certain discharged seamen.

Contracts in 37 eastern states, during January, for construction of all types totaled $196,191,000, according to F. W. Dodge Corp. This was 22 per cent decrease from the January, 1939, total. Private construction showed little change from a year ago and there was an upturn in residential work, but publicly financed construction declined 37 per cent from last year.

In the foreign markets Monday, as U. S. exchanges remained closed, averages in London were up, rails being at the highest levels since 1938. General tone of the Paris Bourse was good, in quiet trading. Amsterdam moved lower in dull trading, with domestic issues showing losses of as much as five points.

New York, Feb. 13 (AP)—Specialties, mainly in the low-price bracket, moved up in today's stock market but many leaders failed to make the grade.

While the pace slowed after a moderately active opening, fractional advances were a shade in the majority near the final hour. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 600,000 shares.

Traders came back from their lengthy holiday without strong speculative opinions either way. Some, though, derived mild inspiration from bright earnings statements and signs the business recession might be flattening. At the same time, foreign affairs and the domestic political picture still appeared unexciting market-wise.

Bonds were up in spots, with Latin-Americans in demand. Commodities as well as European securities markets were mixed.

Among stocks, new 1939-40 highs were posted for Studebaker, Martin-Parry and Loft in relatively lively dealings. Attracting modest support were Crown Corp., International Mercantile Marine, Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, International Paper Preferred, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe and Pennsylvania.

Pointing upward in the curb were Aluminum of America, Electric Bond & Share, Phoenix Securities and American Cyanamid "B."

Local Death Record

Gardiner, Feb. 13.—Frederick Theiss died at the Cornwall Hospital after a long illness. He was in his 53rd year. He had been a resident of Gardiner for the past 30 years. He came to Gardiner from New York and owned and operated a farm at Gardiner and had a gasoline station at Clinton Corners. He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Hayes of Gardiner and Miss Helen Theiss of New York; one brother of New York, and one sister, Mrs. Theodore Gierisch of Modena. Funeral service will be held Wednesday, February 14, from his late residence on the Minnewaska road. Burial will be in the New Palitz Rural Cemetery.

Phoenixia, Feb. 13.—Septimus James Ransom died at Phoenixia. He was born in the province of Ontario at St. Thomas on November 2, 1859, the son of a Methodist minister, who built some of the first brick churches throughout that part of Canada. He was in the theatrical profession for 32 years and for 28 years he and his wife, Margaret, were the original "Theatricals" in the United States. Their act carried them to all parts of the world and he was affiliated with the theatrical order of The White Rats. Locally he was affiliated with the order of Knights of Pythias and was a past chancellor of that organization. Surviving are his wife, Margaret, and daughter, Mrs. H. C. Segelken, of Phoenixia, and one brother and sister in Vancouver, B. C. Also another brother in California. Funeral services will be held at Brethaupt's Chapel at Phoenixia on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Schuker will officiate and the K. of P. Lodge No. 258 will also hold services. Burial will be in the Shandaken Rural Cemetery.

The funeral of William J. Partlan, who died at Racine, Wis., on Friday last, was held from the parlors of James V. Halloran, 44 Broadway, at 9 o'clock, thence to St. Peter's Church where at 9:30 a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul, by the Rev. Henry E. Herdgen. At the offertory, William J. Partlan sang "O Salutaris" and the conclusion of the Mass he sang "Ave Verum." Monday evening at 7:15 Father Herdgen visited the funeral parlors and recited the holy Rosary. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes from a host of sorrowing relatives and friends, together with Spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards which were placed near the casket. The casket bearers were Thomas F. Ward, Patrick F. Flanagan, John J. Costello, Thomas J. Stenson, Walter C. Donnaruma and Frank O'Reilly. Interment was made in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery. Father Herdgen accompanied the cortege and pronounced the final absolution at the grave as the body was laid to rest.

Following a solemn high Mass of requiem offered in St. Joseph's Church this morning for the repose of the soul of Joseph La Lima, of 106 Greenkill avenue, the burial took place in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery. The Rev. Edmund E. Burke was celebrant of the Mass, the Rev. John D. Simmons, deacon, and the Rev. James O'Hara, sub-deacon. The children's choir under the direction of the church organist, Mrs. Frank Rafferty, sang the responses. The Rev. Father Simmons led the long cortege to the cemetery and pronounced the final absolution at the grave in the presence of relatives and several hundred friends. Among the scores of people that called at the La Lima home during the bereavement was a delegation of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society, who under the direction of Father Simmons, recited the Rosary for the repose of the soul of their departed member. A large number of Mass cards and floral tributes were received at the home in honor of Mr. La Lima, who was highly regarded. The casket bearers were: Frank Beto, Angelo Modica, Anthony Pino, Anthony Barbarossa, John Altamora and Joseph Zoda.

Roxbury, Feb. 13.—Mrs. W. Foresta Harrington died at her home on Roosevelt avenue, Roxbury, about 3 o'clock the morning of February 5, after a long illness. Her maiden name was Mary Lois Brandow. She was born May 30, 1862, at Hunter, the daughter of Huron Brandow and Polly (Townsend) Brandow. Her early life was spent at Lanesville, where June 24, 1877, she married W. Foresta Harrington. Their entire married life had been spent in Vega and Roxbury. They celebrated their 62nd wedding anniversary last June, and at the time of Mrs. Harrington's death they had five children, of whom three are living. Kenneth of Roxbury, who with his wife and daughter made their home with them; Huron of Oneonta and Elmer of Stamford. Their only daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Holchuh, died in September, 1936, and a son, Willie, was killed on a railroad 40 years ago at Roxbury. Also surviving are seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Mrs. Harrington was a faithful member of the Methodist Church. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Methodist Church, the Rev. Harry Williams, assisted by the Rev. H. S. Van Woert, officiating. Many from Rose's Brook, Margaretville, Halcottville, Tannersville and Hunter attended. Among those attending were Mrs. Rachel McConvey, Kingston.

DR. F. M. EDWARDS' DISCOVERY FOR CONSTIPATION

Benefits Nation of Sufferers!

COLUMBUS, OHIO: For over 20 years Dr. F. M. Edwards (widely known physician) successfully treated scores of patients for constipation and the headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness which often result.

This wise Doctor knew liver bile must flow freely every day into your intestines or fatty foods can't be properly digested and you may become constipated. So he kept this in mind when he perfected his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful, yet they assure gentle, thorough bowel movements and ALSO help stimulate bile flow. Test their goodness TONIGHT! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

Legislature Proposes

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 13 (AP)—Investigation-minded lawmakers want New York's Legislature to scrutinize all state, county and municipal contracts, the "high cost" of education, and the "entire structure and composition" of state government.

Legislative inquiries, asked in still more resolutions, also would study "justification" of a proposed St. Lawrence seaway, the New York city tax department and what one sponsor termed "the existence of widespread corruption" in police departments of New York city's "various boroughs."

Resolutions asking the studies were introduced last night. A sweeping investigation of state, county and municipal contracts, concurrent with Governor Lehman's examination of alleged irregularities in state printing costs, was asked by Senator John J. McNaboe, New York city Democrat. Asserting that recent disclosures "have caused great shock and alarm," McNaboe maintained the reports hinted many state, county and municipal officials are involved. Governor Lehman a week ago appointed Frederick E. Crane, former chief judge of the Court of Appeals, a Moreland Act commissioner to investigate state printing contracts. A study designed to reduce the high cost of education was requested by Democratic Assemblyman William J. A. Glancey, New York city, as a result, he said, of "sufficient evidence indicating our present school system is failing to serve the purpose for which it is endowed."

Assemblyman Bernard J. Moran, Brooklyn Democrat, proposed inquiries into the New York city tax department and the "corrupt conditions" which he said were disclosed in the Kings county police department by Special Assistant Attorney General John Harlan Amen's investigations. A bill to provide for payment of personal income tax, beginning in 1942, in four equal installments upon the election of the taxpayer was introduced. The first payment would be due on or before the day of filing the return. Senator Pliny W. Williamson, Westchester county Republican, introduced the proposal.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press

Delayed Bucks

Worcester, Mass.—Two gunmen robbed Mrs. Mary Monopli, 60, of $1,300 last Wednesday.

On Friday, a masked stranger rapped at her door and handed her $1,100.

Yesterday, someone else rapped. When she opened it, she found $200 on the porch.

Matrimonial Bureau

Indianapolis.—Some young man is seeking a sweetheart with the aid of the public library.

He left a note in an Aldous Huxley novel suggesting any young lady interested in cultural pursuits should leave a card in James Whitcomb Riley's "Pipes of Pan at Zekesbury."

Librarians scanned Riley's book. There were no takers.

Buck-Passer

Santa Fe, N. M.—The state tourist bureau received a dog-eared, crumpled card requesting literature. It was signed by a Woodward, Okla., housewife and attached was this note from her husband:

"Carried this in my pocket for past four weeks. You will catch it—for being so slow in supplying the information."

Burglar Alarm

Salt Lake City.—Patrolmen Clarence T. Smith and Louis W. Duncan found all quiet when they answered a complaint that the horn of a parked auto was sounding intermittently.

As they turned to leave, the horn sounded a minute or so. They learned the owner had rigged up an attachment to toot the horn every ten minutes.

The idea was to help the police in case the car was stolen.

Hardy Hardwood

Minneapolis.—Shanley Brouard likes basketball.

Just by way of proving it, Brouard played four games in various city leagues the other day between the hours of 2 and 10 p. m., and he rolled up a 73-point total in the doing.

LYONSVILLE

Lyonsville, Feb. 12.—The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society was held on Thursday afternoon of last week at the home of Mrs. Fred D. Oakley.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Durr of Kingston visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Roosa on Sunday evening.

Caroline Countryman, Joan Temple and Kenneth Oakley attended the clinic held at the Stone Ridge school on Monday to receive vaccination and inoculation.

Members of the consistory, their wives and other members of the Dutch Reformed church met on Thursday and Friday of last week for the purpose of cleaning the church and making several improvements.

The Young People's Community Club is planning an evening of games to be held Friday evening, February 23. Everyone is invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Oakley, of Stone Ridge called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oakley and family, Wednesday evening.

An Easter pageant will be presented at the Lyonsville Dutch Reformed church on Easter Sunday.

The oyster supper held at the Lyonsville club house for the benefit of the church proved a success both financially and socially. The proceeds amounted to $36.

The regular monthly meeting of the Young People's Community Club was held Tuesday evening. Following the meeting the members played cards and refreshments were served by the hosts of the evening, Miss Mildred Palen and Charles Kelder.

The Misses Ethel and Dorothy Hornbeck of Krippelbush visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Hornbeck on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Barley of Stone Ridge spent Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Oakley and family.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Countryman and daughter, Caroline, and Joan Temple called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Countryman, of High Falls, on Wednesday evening.

WITTENBERG

Wittenberg, Feb. 12.—The Willing Workers Society will serve an oyster supper in the M. E. Church hall Tuesday evening, February 20, at 6 o'clock.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 13, 1940.

THE 1940 DECENNIAL CENSUS

When the American people face the census taker, who will appear shortly at their doors, they will realize the depth to which his questions go into their private affairs. So be prepared for some surprising queries.

The census taker will want to know how much you make, how much your house is worth, whether there is a mortgage and how much, or how much rent you pay and a hundred and one other things. Will there be a violent protest? Census officials, familiar with the average citizen's dislike of snooping, are banking on the ironclad secrecy of individual returns to obviate any pronounced public resistance.

You may want to laugh at the intimate nature of some of the inquiries. But don't do it. The law provides penalties of fine and imprisonment for either refusal to answer these questions, or for giving false information. A census taker also will be flitting with a prison term, if he reveals any information.

Among other inquiries will be whether persons have jobs, are seeking jobs, how long they have been at work and what kind of work they do.

Salaries, wages or other income and the source.

School attendance and the highest grade completed.

Change of residence in the last five years. The feminine attitude on the age question will cause statisticians to wonder just how accurate are the age returns from women.

Figuring that two hundred questions will be required to get information regarding every member in each of 36,000,000 families, the enumerators will ask a grand total of 7,000,000,000 questions.

An army of 121,000 bell ringers will carry these questions into every American home. The estimated cost of the whole 1940 census is about $53,000,000.

The census taking job was formerly a comparatively simple one of finding out the number of persons, their age and the amount of illiteracy in the United States. This time a flock of new questions will be aimed at getting a nation-wide picture of employment, work experience, finances, housing and educational background of Americans. Also sought will be a measurement of the large migratory movement of the last decade, caused by droughts and economic upsets.

No citizen of the United States will object to scientific fact finding, in fact, census takers will undoubtedly find a cooperative American at each front door. But there has been so many governmental interferences in the past few years, that some of these new questions are certain to arouse latent Yankee risibilities.

FINNISH RELIEF FUND

The close of the Finnish Relief Drive is at hand. Only one week remains to help those brave people have food, clothing, and shelter for the trying days ahead. All America is assisting in the closing hours in the effort to raise three million dollars.

It is expected that before the close of the drive on February 20 many last-minute contributions will swell the local fund which will be turned over to the National Finnish Relief Fund. The grand total today in this city is approximately $750.

With the end of the drive in the United States comes some of the fiercest fighting and it is apparent that Finland cannot withstand forever the attacks from the Soviet, because of sheer weight of enemy numbers, together with bombs from the air. Britain and France realize the serious situation and it is reported that war supplies are beginning to flow. It is stated that the Finns are in desperate need of planes and are depending upon Great Britain and France for aircraft.

That such a response to help Finland was forthcoming in the United States is not surprising because of the worthiness of the cause.

There also is a feeling here that if Finland cracks, we're one step nearer war.

PROPAGANDA FAILS

The flood of propaganda poured into the Near East by both Mussolini and Hitler seems to have borne little fruit. That region now shows distinct leanings toward the Allies rather than Italy and Germany, together or singly.

In the same way, radio and other propaganda has been flooding South American lands for the last few years to win them to Nazism or Fascism, or possibly Communism. Recent evidence shows decreasing enthusiasm there for the European ideologies.

In the same way, Berlin and London have been exchanging complimentary remarks by radio, each trying to undermine the morale of the other and neither apparently accomplishing anything.

There is supposed to be a good deal of propaganda in this country, although the warnings against it have been more conspicuous. In fact, Americans are so alert against propaganda that many of them won't believe anything or take sides on any foreign question.

So far as we know, the domestic propaganda directed at their home folks by the German, Italian, Russian and other propagandizing governments is effective. That may be only because the people are not allowed to hear anything else. And there may come a reaction against it when the overdose becomes impossible to swallow.

This presidential business is very confusing. Some say if Roosevelt runs he'll win in a walk; and others say if he "takes a walk" he can't win.

Silver's a nicer color than most ideological shirts, but we don't need any of 'em.

Uncle Sam in foreign relations is very busy not sticking his neck out.

X-RAY CHEST BEFORE JOINING ARMY

When we were examining for the last war and the recruit was of average weight or near average weight for his build and no tuberculosis could be detected by the usual methods—striking the chest with the fingers to learn the sound, or listening with the stethoscope to get breathing sounds—the recruit was considered to have sound lungs. Among the recruits that were accepted were some who had had tuberculosis but were apparently healed. Some were able to undergo the preliminary training and actually gain weight; others broke down even during the preliminary training and others after a source of much distress to the patients themselves and a great expense to the government.

An editorial in the Canadian Medical Association Journal states that "there is no need to extol the value of the X-ray in the physical examination of the lungs. To those who spend any time in the tuberculosis institutions it is only too evident that by the routine methods of 'sounding' and 'listening' by means of the stethoscope, one is apt to miss much."

In other words no matter what other methods are used, the examination of the chest for military purposes should be carried on by the X-ray.

What would be gained? An enormous sum of money would be saved the country by preventing the entrance into the army of those whose unfitness is not detected by the ordinary or routine methods. The X-ray should become an "ordinary" method.

If, then, the army is considering the use of the X-rays as an "ordinary" method of examination of the lungs, what about the rest of us?

When there is a tired feeling, loss of weight, persistent cough with or without an afternoon rise in temperature, it would be good sense to stop taking cough medicines and tonics and ask your physician about an X-ray examination of the chest. It is not expensive to one regularly employed and is free in most communities to those who are not employed.

The X-ray examination will remove doubt, will show up early tuberculosis, and give every chance for a "cure."

Vaduz, Liechtenstein, CP.—The little postage-stamp principality of Liechtenstein, between Switzerland and Austria Germany, has lower taxes than almost every other country in Europe, save on one thing—dogs. Liechtenstein's 7,000 cows and 3,000 pigs are the main source of income to the country's 10,000 inhabitants. Cows don't like dogs and pigs can get along without them, too. Farmers figure the fewer dogs the better. Hence the high taxes on "man's best friend."

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 129—Ontario

Although the towboat "Ontario" was never owned by local interests, it was a familiar vessel to Hudson river ports for many years, and before its conversion to a towboat it carried passengers up and down the river, beginning with the early days of steamboating.

The steamboat which was destined to operate under the name of the "Ontario" in the later years of its existence was built in 1825 by C. Bergh at New York, as a passenger vessel carrying the name of the "Commerce." The "commerce" was powered with a cross-head engine built by James P. Allaire of New York, and was running mate to the steamboat "Swiftsure" which was constructed in 1823 and was operating between New York and Albany on a route known as the "Swiftsure Line."

The "Commerce" was in service as a passenger vessel until the year 1856 when she was rebuilt at Brooklyn. Her hull was lengthened and changed end for end—her stern being where the bow had formerly been—and the vessel was converted for use as a towboat under the name of the "Ontario." The dimensions of the "Ontario" were: Length 216 feet, breadth of beam 27 feet, depth of hold nine feet, gross tonnage 395, net tonnage 285. Her engine was also enlarged so that her cylinder diameter measured 48 inches with a 10 foot stroke.

The towboat "Ontario" was owned by Commodore Alfred Van Santvoord, who had long been associated with the freight and towing business on the Hudson river, and she was placed in service on the towing route between New York and Albany in line with the Van Santvoord fleet consisting of the "Oswego," "Cayuga," "Anna," "Alida," and "New York."

Commodore Van Santvoord was also in control of the New York and Albany Dayline, and in 1888-1889 he effected a deal with

Questions of Solicitation, Lobbying, Intervention Touch Integrity of Quasi-Judicial Federal Commissions
By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1940)

Washington, Feb. 13.—To what extent should persons who act on behalf of the government in a judicial capacity solicit favors from organizations or individuals which appear before them from time to time to have cases decided?

To what extent, also, should members of so-called quasi-judicial commissions engage in direct lobbying to influence Congress not to alter their own dictatorial powers?

To what extent should the National Labor Relations Board intervene as between local unions of the American Federation of Labor and its executive council and bring about friction between the locals and the parent institution?

These three questions which touch very decidedly the judicial integrity of the quasi-judicial commission, as an institution of government possessed of great powers over the citizens, have been answered by Chairman Warren Madden of the Labor Board in a manner which opens the subject widely for debate.

If the quasi-judicial commission is to be regarded as having judicial power—and only yesterday the Supreme Court of the United States unanimously declared that "findings of fact" by the Labor Board were not subject to court review—then it is of the utmost importance to examine the quality of minds which exercise power on governmental commissions and boards.

Mr. Madden was being interrogated the other day by Representative Howard Smith, chairman of the House committee which is investigating the Labor Board, and the testimony which is a matter of record shows how the "proprieties" are viewed by the quasi-judicial commissioners.

First, on the subject of lobbying, Mr. Madden confessed that he had not discouraged the organizing work done by an outsider, with his knowledge and tacit consent, to line up the various regional directors of the Labor Board to collect witnesses and send telegrams to congressmen and senators to persuade them not to amend the Wagner law. Likewise, Mr. Madden thought it was all right for labor union officials to lobby so that appropriations for the board covering salaries and allowances would be put through. In other words, a lobby to obtain personal financial benefits was not looked upon by Mr. Madden as an improper activity on the part of Labor Board employees, even when the solicitation of help went out to prominent union officials who stood to benefit by Labor Board rulings and decisions.

Then, Mr. Madden also revealed that he saw nothing wrong in letting the local regional officers and employees of the labor board line up American Federation of Labor local unions so as to show that William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, was not speaking for the rank and file of his organization when he favored amendments to the Wagner Act.

To build thus a backfire beneath the executive of a big labor union by undermining him with his constituency and to do so with the machinery of the government of the United States is considered a proper course of action by Chairman Madden. The testimony reads in part:

"Chairman Smith: Your function, as I see it, is to administer the act as Congress sees fit to enact it, and if Congress sees fit to amend the act, I am wondering whether you think it is appropriate for your board, either directly or indirectly, to engage in a lobbying campaign against amendments and try to bring pressure on Congress to oppose amendments. I would like you to go into that further if you don't mind."

"Mr. Madden: Well, I don't know what the proprieties of the thing ought to be; I know that we are dealing with a very confused constituency, a constituency which is not very expert in these matters, a constituency where counsels are very much divided, and there was a great deal of evidence which came to us in one way or another that the official position of the American Federation of Labor was not the position of a great deal of the membership of the American Federation of Labor."

Mr. Madden later defined as his "constituency" the people "who have the protection of the act," and explained the letters sent to regional directors of the labor board with the knowledge and approval of Chairman Madden had as their primary purpose "to let it be known to the congressmen what these people really think, and not what some spokesmen for them might say they think." At this point Representative Smith asked if by "spokesman" the Labor Board chairman was referring to the executive council of the A. F. of L., and he answered, "That is correct."

At another point in the same day's testimony, Representative Routhoun of Ohio, Republican, was questioning Mr. Madden about lining up union leaders to help persuade congress to appropriate funds for the board:

"Don't you think that perhaps by these organizations being solicited they were being put in a rather embarrassing position if they would refuse to send in communications such as were requested?"

"Yes, I think so," replied Mr. Madden.

"What do you think of the propriety of the thing?" said Mr. Madden.

"There is a question about the propriety of anyone asking a person or organization, which has to appear before him and have its affairs determined by him, for anything."

"Had you considered the propriety of that sort of activity at the time that this was being done, are you just thinking of it now?"

"I suppose some thought was given to the propriety of it then," Mr. Madden said.

"If you had any doubts about the propriety, why didn't you resolve it in favor of the doubts?"

"The alternative," answered Mr. Madden, "was to resolve it in favor of destroying this enterprise. We have regarded ourselves—although our people have jobs out of this enterprise (the labor board) and are to that extent interested in it, in addition to that—as trustees of this enterprise for the benefit of those who are to be protected by this law."

"And you think that justified you in doing something that is soliciting something from those who had to deal with you week in and week out through the administration of this act?"

"Well, that was our justification for it, congressman," answered Mr. Madden.

Thus the record shows that the members of the Labor Board feel they can go to unions or individuals who are beneficiaries of their decisions and put themselves under obligations to them to help them keep their positions and salaries and their vast authority over employer-employee relations in America. Small wonder Congress is being asked to consider seriously the future status of the so-called quasi-judicial commission or board under the American system of government.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, Feb. 12—Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ayers entertained Mr. and Mrs. Irving Ayers and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Smith and son, Gordon, at dinner Saturday evening.

Frank Gulnac entertained John Christensen, Adam Koenig and Walter Smith at dominoes Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael McCarthy of Montgomery and Mrs. Gertrude Coulter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Chester Smith.

The Study Club will meet Tuesday, February 13, at the home of Fred Stang, assistant district attorney of Ulster county. He will speak on Washington and Lincoln. Another guest will be Mrs. T. Millsbaugh, president of the Women's Club at Walden.

Upon the request of the Parent-Teacher Association of New Paltz, Professor Edgar V. Beebe of the Normal School faculty addressed the high school student body at their assembly on February 9. He discussed his reasons for choosing the profession of teaching. Mrs. Albert Armas, director of music at the high school, had the band play several selections. This talk was one of a series on vocation which has been arranged by the Parent-Teacher Association for the high school students. The talks start at 2:30 o'clock. Friends of the students are also invited to attend these meetings.

Johnston Hasbrouck celebrated his 86th birthday February 8. Regardless of his age, Mr. Hasbrouck is very active, takes walks along the Ireland Corners-New Paltz road almost daily and being a great lover of horses all his life drives to the village with his favorite horse very often and during summer works in the fields with his sons. Mr. Hasbrouck was the son of the late Daniel I. and Margaret Jane Hasbrouck and spent his boyhood on his father's farm at Guilford near New Paltz. This is where he developed his fondness for horses and later raised, sold, raised and bred many fast horses and raced at the old tracks which for many years was known as the Broadhead Race Track, New Paltz. He attended New Paltz Academy and studied law for two years. He married Sarah D. B. LeFevre, daughter of Joseph and Mary LeFevre, on June 13, 1878. There were two sons, Josiah L. and Daniel Hasbrouck. Mr. Hasbrouck's grandson, Kenneth E. Hasbrouck, entertained at his home in honor of his grandfather's birthday on February 8.

Helen Eliza Bortner, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Adrian W. Bourdon, of Plattsburg, and Walter L. Taylor of New Paltz were married at St. John's Church, Plattsburg, Saturday, February 3.

4 Are Suspended From U. S. Jobs Due to Stag Affair

Baltimore, Feb. 13 (AP)—Four Federal Social Security Board employees were under indefinite suspension today and scores of others were being questioned as an aftermath of a Sunday night "stag-tease" stag show which ended in a police raid and arrest of 157 men.

Joseph L. Fay, chief of the board's office here, announced the suspensions last night after an all-day inquiry. He said 72 of the men arrested had been identified as board employees, and added: "Any others found to be associated with the promotion of the affair will be suspended immediately."

Five women performers also were arrested in the raid on the show, held at a resort near Baltimore.

Meanwhile, Representative Engel (R., Mich.) sent an open letter to Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt requesting a full report on the affair. Engel said he particularly wished to know if tickets to the stag party were sold in the board's offices.

Farley to Nominate Himself or F.D.R.

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—Formation of a Roosevelt-Farley delegate slate in Wisconsin strengthened the belief of many politicians today that the Chief Executive and the postmaster general are in accord on the Democratic presidential campaign.

One senator in close touch with Farley told reporters that the cabinet member and national Democratic chairman was "resolved to do one of two things—nominate himself or Mr. Roosevelt."

The Wisconsin Democratic state convention, meeting last night at Wisconsin Rapids, declared that the President should be drafted for a third term. Another resolution expressed the hope that Farley "may continue in public life in the interest of the people of the nation."

The convention adopted a slogan of "officially endorsed Roosevelt-Farley delegates" for its slate in the April 2 primary. National Committee Chairman Charles E. Broughton said, however, that the mention of Farley did not mean he was endorsed as an alternate presidential choice or as a vice presidential candidate.

Farley has given his consent to entering a delegate slate pledged to him in the Massachusetts presidential primary, but has made no other direct indication that he is a candidate for office.

Close friends of Vice President Garner, himself a presidential candidate, expressed the belief that Farley was ready to turn over any delegates he might win to Mr. Roosevelt if the latter decides to run.

The Garner supporters voiced disappointment that Farley, in his Massachusetts declaration, did not say he would be a candidate even if the President seeks another term. Garner, in fact, is the only Democrat who has made such a statement.

An effort is being made to save from extinction the Canada Lynx, which has in recent years been increasingly in demand for its beautiful soft and silky fur. In the season of 1935-36, for instance, there were over 22,000 pelts taken and in 1936-37 over 17,000.

Urge Captains to File Entries for City Championship

With only slightly more than two weeks remaining before the deadline for entries expires, all bowling captains in the Kingston Bowling Association are urged to file the necessary entries for the forthcoming city championships.

The deadline expires at midnight March 1, with the tournament scheduled to get under way on the Y. M. C. A. alleys on March 15.

Entries should be mailed or sent to Wilson C. Ingalls, 679 Broadway, Mr. Ingalls also is available at the Ingalls and Bouton coal yard on Wilbur avenue from 12 to 1, daily except Sundays.

The tournament will be conducted in three classes again this season, A, B, and C. Individuals of 175 and above and teams with 875 and up are Class A. Individuals up to 155 and teams up to 775 are Class B. The Class C group is from 775 to 875.

Cash prizes will be awarded in all classifications. Bowlers are eligible to compete with as many regular 5-man teams as they are registered members of.

All averages must be computed on a composite basis. Thus if a bowler rolls in more than one league, his combined average must be used to determine his rating.

The tournament which starts at the "Y" on March 15 will be the fourth annual meet under the jurisdiction of the Kingston Bowling Association. The first tournament was staged at St. Peter's, the next at the Immanuel and last year's was held at Emerick's.

Girl Has Narrow Escape in Creek

Bonnie June Potter, seven-year-old daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Francis Potter of Connelly, had a narrow escape from serious consequences when she ventured on the ice which fringes the Rondout creek, at which is known as the old ferry slip, at Connelly, Monday afternoon.

Bonnie either slipped off or broke through the ice and went into the icy water up to her waist, when an older girl, Elizabeth Wilson, got hold of her and pulled her back to safety. She was dressed in a heavy snow suit and it is understood suffered no serious consequences from her immersion. Not a great distance from where the accident occurred there is a deep channel.

NEW WEAPON TO SAVE FARM BABIES

This kerosene-burning portable incubator, costing $40, is undergoing its first test in Maryland's health department fight against high death rates for premature country babies. Mrs. Irma Griffin, whose twin daughters are using the incubator for the first time, finds it does double duty as a handy crib in her home at Salisbury.

To Give Talk

Mayor Roger W. Huntington of Waterville, president of The Real Estate Association of the State of New York on Friday will be the guest of the Kingston Real Estate Board at a luncheon at noon in the Hotel Stuyvesant. It is expected that President Huntington will have a message of interest to the local real estate men, and a large attendance of the members of the local board are planning to attend the luncheon.

New Bird Discovered

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Smithsonian Institution has announced the discovery of a new bird—the first in the United States in 21 years. Karl W. Haller, Bethany College ornithologist, discovered it in West Virginia. It has some of the characteristics of the parula warbler and is similar in coloring to the yellow-throated warbler, with a yellowish olive patch on the back, a trace of brown on the flanks, and a little white on the tail.

Hollywood Elopement

Hollywood, Feb. 13 (AP)—Artie Shaw, the band leader, and Lana Turner, glamorous young motion picture actress, were married today in Las Vegas, Nev., after an air elopement.

Polling Place Changed

At a meeting of the town board of the town of Ulster, held February 5, action was taken changing the location of the polling place for the fifth election district of the town. For a number of years the polling place has been on the property of Jacob Lay, but on action of the board it has been changed to the Mountain View House on the Saugerties road.

Report on NYA Girls' Work Given

The employment situation for young women throughout the country was discussed at a two-day conference in Washington, D. C., of various National Youth Administration officials. The conference was called by Aubrey Williams, NYA administrator.

It was pointed out that the proportion of girls to boys employed on NYA projects in up-state New York and on Long Island is almost half.

Ulster county has shared largely in the program for young women. Girls have been working locally in library and nursery service, on recreational programs, on sewing projects and in various clerical positions. Production for the past quarter of a year locally includes 607 hospital supplies, 29 children's garments and 39 aprons.

The proportion of girls to boys working on the local projects is considerably less than in other localities, due to the fact that more young women are offered opportunities to work in textile industries than young men.

Applications to the NYA by girls has increased since the first of the year, it was reported today, however, in the county.

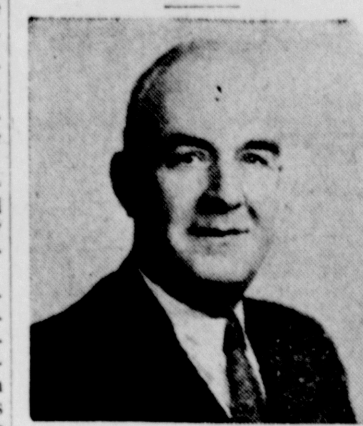

There is an estimated 23,000 unemployed, out-of-school young women in New York state, exclusive of New York city, in addition to those already employed on the NYA out-of-school work program who need NYA work experience and related training.

Production during the past three months by young women employed on all projects except clerical runs as follows: 7,000 infants' garments; 2,300 children's garments; 3,000 garments for adults; 260 quilts and rugs; 150,000 items of surgical supplies; 440,658 school lunches; 29,565 hospital meals; 1,078 pieces of furniture repaired; 3,389 small articles such as lamps, household articles, and toys constructed and painted; 8,068 lantern slides; 1,750 laboratory photos; 1,280 maps; 306 graphs; 185 exhibit pieces; 814 posters.

Will Go to Ithaca

The following Ulster county home makers are attending the annual farm and home week at Ithaca this week: Mrs. DeWitt Crowell and Mrs. Reed Wilkins of Wallkill; Mrs. George Adams, Jr., Miss Bertha Snyder and Mrs. John Dederick of Mt. Marion; Mrs. Raymond DuBois and Mrs. Giles Randall of Gardiner; Mrs. C. Hardenbergh of Stone Ridge; Miss Sally Splain, assistant home demonstration agent, and Miss Everice Parsons, county home demonstration agent.

Benton to Head Express Company Eastern District

CHARLES BENTON

Charles Benton, an express official of wide experience, has been appointed superintendent of the Eastern New York division of the Railway Express Agency, it was stated by W. B. Ingalls, local agent of the company. Mr. Benton succeeds P. T. Webber, who has been transferred in the same capacity to Baltimore, Md.

During a career of some 34 years in express service, Mr. Benton has served in various branches of the business in the New York metropolitan area and the east generally.

Mr. Benton in 1934 was given a place on the staff of the general manager at Philadelphia and his most recent promotion brings him to the northeastern operation department, of which the eastern New York department is an important section.

Townsend Club Will Hold Meeting Wednesday Night

The regular semi-monthly meeting of Kingston Townsend Club will be held Wednesday evening at Mechanics' Hall, Henry street, near Broadway. Reports will be given of the great Townsend rally in Erie Theatre, Schenectady, Sunday evening where nearly 3,000 people filled the building to hear Dr. Francis E. Townsend, founder of the movement. Thirty-four Townsends went from this city to the meeting.

The subject for discussion Wednesday evening will be, "The Social Security Law Farce." The promised reward will be given at the close of the program to the winners in the recent contest in which 118 members were added to the club. All members of the club are especially urged to be present.

Republican's Emphasize Enterprise And Freedom in Campaign Talks

New York, Republican Chairman John Hamilton said: "The people of America know that Mr. Roosevelt steps from the White House next January he will leave to his Republican successor a country in as critical a condition as Buchanan left to Lincoln."

Several speeches at the 700 Lincoln celebrations were broadcast, with Mr. Hoover leading off in Omaha.

"Americans cannot allow their fellow Americans to go hungry," he said, "yet relief cannot go on forever. The current cost of relief, in all its aspects, federal, state and local, is nearly four billion yearly. * * * We must restore these people to self support before relief fails."

Declaring that the country must keep out of war and turn from "government spending to national thrift," the former President added it must adopt "the concept that it is only through steadily increasing productivity of the nation that we can make progress."

Here are brief quotations from other Republican speakers: Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, House minority leader: "For seven years this country has been made a proving ground for reckless experiments, and those experiments have failed. * * * If destruction be our lot, we must ourselves be its author and finisher."

Rep. Barton of New York: "Abraham Lincoln was ill-fed, ill-clothed, ill-housed—and did not know it."

Hanford MacNider, former minister to Canada: "History will record that Abraham Lincoln freed the slaves, but Franklin Roosevelt enslaved the free."

Rep. Fish of New York: "I am convinced that if President Roosevelt is re-elected or any of the new internationalists, we will be in the war within three months after the inauguration."

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts: "Let us never fight for any cause that is not an American cause."

Hartford Honored

The founder of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, George Huntington Hartford, who created the modern retailing method of direct buying and straightline, mass distribution, is being honored by all A. & P. stores during Founder's Week, February 12-19, the company announced here today.

During 1938 the nine dredges operated in the Yukon by Yukon Consolidated Gold Corporation handled 8,550,600 cubic yards of gravel, which yielded 60,055 fine ounces of gold and 14,413 fine ounces of silver.

U.S. ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION OFF FOR YEAR'S SURVEY

SLED DOGS...YEAR'S SUPPLY OF SLOW-BURNING CAMEL CIGARETTES ACCOMPANY ADMIRAL BYRD TO ANTARCTIC

OFF TO VOLUNTARY EXILE: Right now if you had to choose the one and only brand of cigarette you would smoke through a whole year—you'd make sure you picked the right brand. The men on the Antarctic expedition were in a situation like that. The expedition took Camels! Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd explained: "Slow-burning Camels are a great favorite with us." You, yourself, may never go near the South Pole, but the right cigarette is important to you, too. Camels give you extra mildness, extra coolness, and extra flavor—plus extra smoking in every pack. (See below.)

SMOKERS: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See panel at right.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

"MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF...MORE PUFFS PER PACK"...

That's how these three members of the U. S. Antarctic expedition tell of the advantages of their favorite cigarette...slow-burning Camels. Richard Moulton, senior dog-driver (center), sums up when he says: "Slow burning is my measure of a milder, cooler, more flavorful smoke. I'd sledge a mile for a Camel." Nothing destroys a cigarette's delicate elements of flavor and fragrance like the excess heat of too-fast burning. Cigarettes that burn fast also burn hot. Camels are slower-burning...milder, mellower, and—naturally—cooler! Try Camels. Find out for yourself how slow-burning Camels give you more pleasure per puff...and more puffs per pack—more actual smoking (see panel extreme right).

BLOOD RUNS COLD

By Ann Demarest

YESTERDAY: Dirck advises Chris to make another list and leave it out, as before. He spends the night with Richard, telling Chris to rap on the pipe if she needs him. A crash on the fire escape awakens her. She faints and Dirck and Richard revive her.

Chapter 25

'Fright of a Lifetime'

AFTER they left I untangled myself from the blankets and went on very uncertain legs into the bathroom to mop off some of the mud and change into fresh pajamas. When I finally got up courage to look in the mirror I nearly fainted again and reached hastily for a lipstick.

They came back in about ten minutes and by that time I felt a little better. Dirck had glasses for all of us. Two small ones for them and a tumbler for me. He poured me to be half a glass.

"To be taken in quantity for medicinal purposes," he said.

I grinned and sipped it slowly. It picked me up quickly.

Richard built a fresh fire while Dirck settled himself in the wing chair opposite me and started to explain what had happened.

"We were sitting talking," he said as he lit a cigarette for me, "and I went to the window. The room had gotten pretty warm, so I opened one window a little and glanced down in the yard, never expecting to see anything. But there was someone walking around."

I took another sip of brandy. "What did you do?"

Dirck picked up the story again. "I crawled down the fire escape trying to keep close to the house so I wouldn't be seen, and Richard went down through the house. We thought between us we might corner whomever it was. You see, although it wasn't very light in the yard, I was certain it wasn't a policeman walking around down there. Anyway, when I passed your window I gripped on the sill to lower the ladder to the ground and knocked your plant on the floor. But I was going so fast I couldn't come back when I heard the crash and guessed what it might be. The ladder had swung back to this floor again. By that time there was no one in sight in the yard. Richard came around the side of the house and we looked all over the place. Then I saw you and called. I'm frightfully sorry, Chris."

"You gave me the fright of a lifetime, Mr. Kolff," I told him. "When there was no answer to my signal on the pipe I thought you'd both been murdered in your beds."

"I thought of that," Dirck said, "but it was too late then to do any good. I was in the yard and Richard was on his way downstairs."

"Didn't Sergeant Long say he'd leave a detective on guard in the shop?"

Dirck nodded. "He was sound asleep. We looked in at him and then I rushed up and found you on the floor in the dark."

"How did you get in here, anyway?" I asked him curiously. "You must have broken the lock."

He didn't answer me.

In the pause that followed he and Richard stared at each other and Dirck's face in the firelight looked strange.

"Dirck, tell me, how did you get in?" I could hardly force the words through my lips. And my hands were shaking so badly I had to put the glass on the coffee table to keep from dropping it.

He leaned forward. "Your door wasn't locked, Chris," he said quietly.

"Like a Meringue"

FOR a moment I had to press my hands over my mouth to keep from screaming. "Dirck, it was," I panted. "I locked it when I went to bed."

He shook his head with a faint smile. "You must have thought you did," he said.

"I know it was locked. The night before it stuck, but tonight it locked perfectly. I tried it a couple of times to be sure. And no one could have unlocked it. I felt the key in the door."

Simultaneously our eyes turned towards the door. There was no key in the keyhole. It was on the floor a few feet away. I could see it shining in the light.

Dirck stiffened. "I wouldn't worry about this," he said, and I knew he was forcing his voice to sound casual. "Perhaps the lock didn't catch, and when we opened the door the key fell out."

I nodded slowly, trying to accept his explanation, but I knew it wasn't true.

"Now listen to me, lady," Dirck said. "I'm sure nothing more will happen tonight. But the most dangerous points in this house are the two apartments on the fire escape, yours and Richard's."

I interrupted him. "I never knew that fire escapes were regular boulevards before. A man came down last night right after I moved in and nearly scared me out of my wits."

Richard jerked around on the stool. "When was that? You can get out on the fire escape only from my apartment."

"It was right after your sister went up to your apartment. I heard her call you, then come down again. You weren't in, I guess."

He nodded. "I got home later than usual last night."

"Right after she came downstairs I heard someone walking overhead and then a man came down the fire escape. I saw his hand on my window."

"Oh, my gosh," Richard groaned. "Who could that have been?"

Then Dirck said, "Richard, you lock yourself in tonight. I'm pretty certain the other people in the house are safe. Anyway," he rubbed his forehead wearily, "I can't see why anyone would want to harm them. I'll stay here with Chris and sleep in one of these chairs. You can, too, if you like, Richard."

But Richard said no, he wasn't afraid. And I didn't protest except to tell Dirck that I was afraid he wouldn't get enough sleep. I didn't want to go back to bed now, anyway.

"Are you sure Mary Ann is safe?" I teased him.

"Chris," he said, very seriously, "I'm disappointed in you. You steered me wrong. There is nothing there but the red hair. She reminds me of one of those meringues I used to eat when I was a kid. Put your fork in it and it crumbles to pieces. Besides she, along with a dozen others, knows more than she is telling."

I took a long swallow of brandy. "Hoop la!" I said.

Dirck leaned back and looked up at the ceiling. "I knew you'd be relieved," he said with maddening complacency.

"It's my faith in men you've revived, not my penchant for lawyers."

"Beware"

RICHARD looked at us with a faint smile. "Beware of the red-head, Dirck," he said.

I sat up. "Why?"

"He means me, not you, darling," Dirck said patiently.

"She's not as good as she looks," Richard said quickly, and then paused, an odd, thoughtful look in his eyes.

Dirck leaned forward abruptly, but before he could speak Richard said, "There's no reason for my bringing it up. Forget it. I'm sorry I ever mentioned it. But she's a good one to avoid, that's all."

He bent over and picked up an evening paper from the floor by the fireplace. "Have you read the papers yet?" he asked, changing the subject quite deliberately.

Dirck said that he'd read the Sergeant's tabloid while they were waiting at the hospital to see Louise Lathrop.

"They did a neat job at unearthing the family skeleton," Richard said grimly.

Dirck nodded. "I didn't know until I saw the paper that there was any mystery about Warner Kent's death. You uncle told me he died years ago, but he didn't say how."

Richard frowned. "He never mentions it. Uncle Nick is very much opposed to publicity of any kind. He has always ignored anything unpleasant. This happening will throw him in a dither for weeks. It isn't just grief, you see."

Richard went on. "It's that she didn't die naturally."

"Mrs. Evans has openly accused him of the murder," Dirck said in a quiet voice.

Richard cupped his thin hands under his chin. "I know she did," he said. "I'd thought of that, too, but I decided it wasn't possible. Not Uncle Nick. He couldn't do it in the first place, even if he had wanted to. He's the most helpless man you can imagine, and so fussy and precise. His whole life is wrapped up in that shop and nothing else interests him."

The Sergeant has been pressing him like the very devil," Dirck said thoughtfully.

"Oh, gosh, I know it. He'll probably arrest both of us by morning."

And then Richard jerked his head up quickly, his eyes turning towards the window and I watched him tensely. Then he laughed harshly. "I thought I heard something, but I guess it's just my imagination."

"I didn't hear anything," Dirck said, reassuringly.

And Richard settled back on the stool again with a sigh.

And then after a moment's silence, Dirck said, "Could Joan remember her father?"

Richard shook his head. "No, she was only a little girl when he died. And Mother married within a year after. She was criticized for that, but if you knew Mother you'd realize that she couldn't get on without someone to take care of her. There is something helpless, almost defenseless about her."

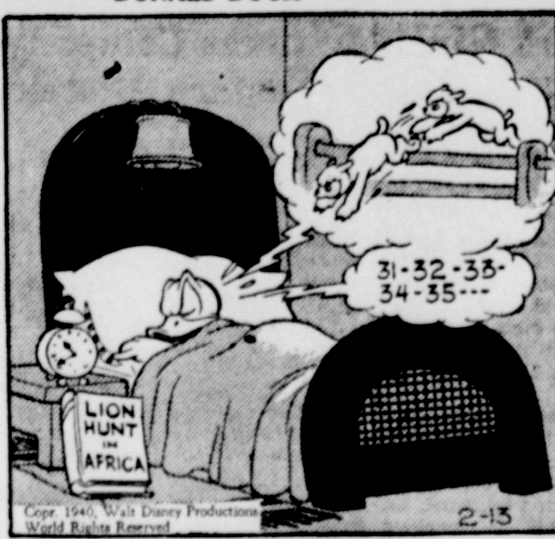

"What was Warner Kent like?" Dirck leaned back in the chair comfortably.

"Oh, everyone said he was a fascinating man. Joan was a lot like him, though not in looks. Both of us take after Mother." He raised a match to his cigarette. His face looked thin and very boyish in the flickering light.

And then suddenly I realized why I didn't like him very well.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Feb. 13.—Icy traveling Wednesday failed to prevent a generous turnout at the Ladies' Aid church quilting and luncheon. Following the dinner serving further plans were made concerning the newly reorganized Sunday school. Mrs. Charles Gustafson will be the superintendent and adult class teacher, and Mrs. Reese Smith, assistant superintendent and adult teacher. There will be senior boys and girls classes with Mrs. Charles Gustafson and Mrs. Ruth R. West the respective teachers. Mrs. Belle Burgher will conduct the junior class. The pastor and Mrs. Frank Bailey have volunteered as substitute teachers. Prospects seem very bright for success of the worthy organization. The group of members and friends present included the Rev. and Mrs. Frank Bailey and daughters, Lois and Irma, Mrs. A. J. Fenty, president, Mrs. Addie Van Demark, treasurer, Mrs. Anna Avery, secretary, Mrs. Belle Burgher, Mrs. Florence Bell, Miss Jennie Kerr, Mrs. Fanny Boice and daughter, Mrs. Gardner Donahoe and son, Bruce, of Grahamsville, Mrs. Addie Kelder, Miss Ollie Burgher, Mrs. Chase Davis, Mrs. Reese Smith, Mrs. Dorothy Burke and son, Tommy.

The Milton Gelbert Tree Service of Olive Bridge is streamlining the row of stately maples along the roadway in front of the caretaker's cottage at Woodland Acres estate.

Frank Booth of Brodhead made a motor trip to Kingston Friday. Mrs. James Burgher and Mrs. Edward Avery of Maple Dell Farm and friend, Miss Jennie Kerr, were social callers in Cottekill Friday afternoon.

E. C. Burgher was a recent business caller in Woodstock. While saving wedges at his Boiceville mill on Thursday Charles Duloff had the misfortune to suffer a broken thumb.

Judge Fred L. Weidner made a business trip to Kingston Thursday.

While chopping firewood in Watson Hollow Friday Howard Watson Kleeck suffered an injury to the left side of his face when struck by a small tree stub that was caught under the limb of a fallen tree and flew up when released.

Wednesday morning the Watson Hollow road was so slippery that Mrs. Addie Van DeMark, who transports the school children to and from the Bushkill school, was unable to make the trip.

Joe Winkler made a business trip to Kingston for Judge Lester S. Davis Friday.

Mrs. Louisa Van Kleeck of Brodhead was numbered among community shoppers in Kingston Friday.

James Burgher and Raymond Bell assisted Don Bishop with firewood sawing Thursday.

Judge and Mrs. Lester S. Davis and ex-Highway Superintendent Claude Bell were among friends who attended the funeral of Dennis Dullea held Tuesday in the Bronx.

Assessor Francis Avery of Watson Hollow was a recent caller in Olive Bridge.

Edward Avery, of Maple Dell Farm, made a recent trip to Delaware county.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Longyear of Brooklyn, also Lawrence J. Kelder, of Montclair, N. J., were scheduled among home visitors for over the week-end and holiday.

Mrs. Grace Winchell of Sunny Cliff Farm, made a trip to Kingston Friday.

Supervisor Lemuel E. DuBois of Ashokan made a call on the west side one day recently.

The local scout troop's party was successfully held at Gustafson's hall Friday evening.

None Can Tell Reason, but Girl's Hearing's Back

Grafton, W. Va., Feb. 13 (AP).—Specialists said 18-year-old Eloise Lockard would never hear again but she did—and faintly with joy.

Totally deaf for 13 months, Miss Lockard was sitting at home talking with other members of her family by reading their lips when she suddenly asked her startled brother:

"What did you say? I believe I heard you."

She collapsed after he repeated the statement. Just to confirm return of her hearing, Eloise telephoned her father yesterday and said she experienced no difficulty in understanding him.

Police Captain A. E. Lockard reported his daughter became deaf while a senior in high school but graduated last June despite the handicap. Specialists said the nerves in her ears were paralyzed and that they couldn't help her. Physicians here were unable to explain return of her hearing.

To Give Play

"Aunt Minnie From Minnesota," a play, will be presented by The Berean Class of Hurley at the Mt. Marion Reformed Church Hall Thursday evening, February 15, at 8 o'clock. Home made ice cream, cake and candy will be on sale by the ladies of the church.

To Give Party

There will be a valentine party in the Tillson Reformed Church Hall, Wednesday evening, February 14, at 7:30 o'clock. There will be refreshments, games. Ice cream will be for sale.

Officers Elected to YW Directors Board

Officers of the Board of Directors of the Y. W. C. A. were elected last evening at a meeting of the board held at the "Y" office. Mrs. A. Noble Graham was re-elected president for another term.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Harry B. Walker, vice president; Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler, treasurer; Miss Mary M. Staples, recording secretary, and Mrs. Doris Monroe, corresponding secretary. All of the officers succeeded themselves with the exception of Mrs. Monroe who succeeded Mrs. Cornelius S. Treadwell, whose term as a director has expired.

Mrs. Graham appointed the following chairmen of standing committees: Girl Reserves, Mrs. Raymond H. Rignall; education, Mrs. Theron L. Culver; hospitality, Mrs. Leonard T. Flicker; finance, Mrs. John B. Sterley; industrial, Mrs. George Ross and Miss Katherine D. Millard, co-chairmen; membership, Mrs. Charles Arnold; secretarial, Mrs. Harry B. Walker and house, Mrs. Adam Thiel.

It was also voted at the meeting to send two delegates to the national Y. W. C. A. convention in Atlantic City, N. J., in April. Delegates will be elected by a committee of which Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler is chairman.

Miss Carolyn Mullin, Girl Reserve secretary, reported on the Girl Reserve national conference which she attended at Lake Forest, Ill., December 29 to January 5.

Sisterhood Meeting

The Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel will meet Wednesday afternoon at the vestry rooms, Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom will be the guest speaker.

Y.G.B.I. Party Tonight

The Young Girls in Business and Industry will hold a Valentine party this evening at 8 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. A special program in keeping with Valentine's Day has been planned.

Given Surprise Party

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Every were given a surprise party Friday evening at their home, 128 Franklin street. During the evening they were presented with a floor lamp, a set of dishes and many other useful articles. Games and music were enjoyed. A mid-night luncheon was served. Those present were: The Misses Eleanor Carey, Margaret Cardone, Florence Morton and Frances Parsells, and Clifford Every, Robert Crowell, Gordon Craig, Herbert Every, Donald Jacob, Mrs. LeRoy Every, Mrs. George Simmons and Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Redden.

Anniversary Party

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller were hosts at their home, 23 Prospect street, Sunday evening in honor of their 19th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were the recipients of many gifts. During the evening music was furnished by the three cowboys, Tex, Slim and Doc, and by Miss Dorothy Miller, who played the Hawaiian guitar. Guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Corey, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mantovani, Mabel Boyce, Adelaide Boyce, Hilda Pierson, Mrs. John Fisher, Ralph and Dorothy Miller and George Miller.

Twentieth Century Has Valentine Party

Members of the Twentieth Century Club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert P. Baylor, 270 Clinton avenue, for the annual Valentine party.

During the evening Valentine games were enjoyed including guessing contests of current book titles, at which each member wore something suggestive of a title, and guessing of names of local streets. Prizes at the games were awarded to Mrs. William Fessenden and Mrs. R. H. D. Boerker. Preceding the party a short business meeting was held during which topics for next year's program were discussed. The program committee for the coming year was appointed as follows: Mrs. George E. Kenney, chairman; Mrs. Harry B. Walker, Mrs. R. L. Sisson, Mrs. Weldon J. McClusky, Mrs. Raymond Woodard. The next meeting of the club will be held February 26 at the home of Mrs. DeWitt F. Wells, 325 Lucas avenue.

Members of the club attending the party were Mrs. E. O. Allen, Miss Ella Bernard, Mrs. R. H. D. Boerker, Mrs. C. B. Dickinson, Mrs. T. D. Edmonston, Mrs. W. S. Eltinge, Mrs. J. C. Fraser, Miss Sarah W. Hasbrouck, Miss Mary H. Ingalls, Mrs. George E. Kenney, Mrs. Maynard Mizel, Miss Frances J. Osterhout, Mrs. S. M. Taylor, Mrs. DeWitt F. Wells, Mrs. G. A. Whitford and Mrs. G. Newton Wood. Associate members present included: Mrs. William N. Fessenden, Miss Ella Millham and Mrs. W. J. Cranston.

DAR Broadcast

Members of Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, are requested to listen to the broadcast on Wednesday over Station WJZ at 1:30 to hear Mrs. Henry Robert, Jr., president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Robert will speak on the Journal of the Air Program.

Sorosis Continues Studies

Members of Sorosis continued the study of "Personalities and Progress of the Day," at the meeting held Monday at the home of Mrs. Grover C. Lasher on Lucas avenue. The paper for the afternoon was on the sewing machine and was given by Mrs. Herbert Darrow. Mrs. Darrow reviewed the history of the sewing machine, to which she referred as a servant in the house, and emphasized the important part played in its development by Elias Howe and Isaac Singer. In conclusion she told of a visit to the Singer headquarters in New York city. The meeting next week will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Parker Van Wagenen on John street.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herzog of Johnston avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davenport of Stone Ridge have returned from a two weeks' vacation at Delray Beach, Fla.

Jason C. Carle, a member of the firm of Felix Christ, auditors and accountants, of New York city, who has been transferred to Baltimore, Md., spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jason E. Carle, 157 Henry street.

Speaker Attacks
Propaganda Evil

People taught to think in a democracy are "more apt to think their way out of trouble," Dr. Clyde R. Miller told a large audience last night in another of the series of Temple Emanuel forums.

Dr. Miller, executive secretary of the Institute for Propaganda Analysis, touched upon propaganda and its effect on developments in Europe and described Hitler as "probably the cleverest propagandist of all times."

Hitler's use of propaganda made him appear Europe's chief bulwark against Communism, the speaker said, and through this device Nazism grew to power in Germany and Great Britain was tricked by this anti-Comintern talk.

English politicians, blinded by the false build-up as Nazism grew, believed that re-armament of Germany and militarization of the Rhine was a factor in their favor. Great Britain stood by without protest, he indicated, for the Anschluss with Austria and for the German and Italian aid to Spain in its civil war.

The speaker's definition of propaganda was "persuasion—getting people to think as you want them to think and to act as you want them to act." He listed as the seven principal types in everyday use: Name-calling, glittering generalities, testimonial devices, transfer devices, the plain folks angle, stacked cards, and the bandwagon devices.

Stalin, the speaker pointed out, has not been as clever or successful with his propaganda as Hitler. The latter, he said, builds up propaganda before his attempts at territorial expansion, and his attempts have been successful. Stalin, he said, did the same thing before the Finnish campaign, but his method was blundering.

All agencies of propaganda including the press, radio, motion pictures, churches, schools, lodges and unions, he said, were likened to the camera lens with "a factor of distortion." Censorship, he said, also prevents the public from getting the news as it is.

WCTU to Meet

The February meeting of the Kingston Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held Thursday at 2:30, in the parlors of the St. James Church. The devotional period will be in charge of Mrs. T. H. Edmonston. As this will be the Frances Willard memorial meeting, a suitable program will be presented, with Miss Elizabeth Saulpaugh as leader. The hostess for the afternoon will be Mrs. Joseph W. Chasey. A welcome is extended to all who are interested in the work of this organization.

GOOD TASTE

SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCES EXCUSE ABSENCE OF CHAPERONS NOWADAYS

Such, for instance, as Overnight
Train Trip When Fellow
Passengers Are Really
Chaperons

Although the newest edition of my book on etiquette goes very far—compared with the original edition—in its modification of man and girl proprieties, these changes have been brought about by practical experience rather than by any letting down of standards. For example, this paragraph still stands exactly as it was written: "Convention decrees that a young girl may not, even with her fiancé, go on a long-distance motor trip and stop over-night in a hotel without a chaperon; nor is it supposed to be proper to go on any other journey that can last longer than the day."

To this, however, a modifying clause now appears: "—and yet there are occasions when it may be caviling to say that he and she cannot properly take a long trip by train, especially in a pullman car where every other passenger is necessarily a chaperon."

An excellent illustration of one of these "occasions" is the question asked by a college girl as to whether she may properly travel overnight on a train with a young man also going home from college. She wonders whether the fact that they are not just college mates but also happen to be in love with each other may put a different light on the situation. She also explains that the de luxe cars made up of private staterooms are beyond their means.

The answer to her question, it seems to me, is this: If these two young people were deliberately taking a different train from that taken by other classmates who are going in the same direction, in order to go home by themselves, then I think they would put themselves in the wrong light. But if they are taking the obviously convenient train—even though they happen to be the only students on this train—I can't imagine how any one could possibly think anything about them unless their behavior attracts attention and deserves criticism. In an ordinary open parlor car, even a sleeping car, I have already said, every traveler is chaperoned by every other. To go together on a train made up of staterooms would, on the contrary, be the most imprudent thing they could possibly do.

Beware of Rushing Into First Names

Dear Mrs. Post: We have a young high-school teacher living with us. This young man is a recent expatriate. When he arrived I introduced my two sons, both in their early twenties, as Harry and Henry Blank. Every since, he has called them by their first names. But we have all been calling him Mr. Bright. Do you think we should call him by his first name, too?

Answer: No, I think you should keep on calling him Mr. Bright until he asks you to call him by his first name. If in time you like him so much that he becomes almost a member of your family, you will undoubtedly drop the mister. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Introductions." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of this paper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

New Costume Jewelry
A Delight To Make

Jingle Bracelet and Belt Set

The latest thing in sports accessories—tinkling little bells on your bracelet and belt. And it's so easy to make such smart costume jewelry right at home—for yourself!

To make a gay jingle bell bracelet you need 4 yards of red wool yarn, 30 small bells. Begin by cutting nine 14-inch pieces of yarn. Using each 3 pieces as a strand, start braiding. At the end of 4 inches, string on 3 bells as our diagram shows—one through a single strand of each trio. Now braid again, adding 3 bells every 1/4 inch until all are used. Then, about 1/4 inch from each end, secure the braid with a few stitches with needle and yarn, cover with buttonhole stitches.

The belt? You quickly make it from a strip of brightly striped grosgrain ribbon, stitch on the bells.

And what a variety of other jewelry you can make—a "grape" boutonniere from ivory buttons, a "coral" necklace from popcorn. Get the complete directions for these and other smart pieces of costume jewelry from our 32-page booklet. Shows how to make clever new necklaces, bracelets, boutonnieres, clips—from inexpensive, everyday materials.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of COSTUME JEWELRY YOU CAN EASILY MAKE to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Churches to Hold Youth Conference

On February 16, 17 and 18 in Buffalo, New York, a Youth Conference will be held under the New York State Council of Churches. It opens Friday noon with guided tours of the city and a get-acquainted party at 5 p. m.

Conference sessions begin Friday evening with outstanding leaders of youth as discussion leaders. For those over 24 years of age, a Young Adult Conference will be held with the privilege of attending the general sessions with those under 24. Conference sessions will continue all day Saturday.

On Saturday evening a special train will leave Buffalo at 6 o'clock for Niagara Falls where supper will be served at Cataract House at 7:15, after which the delegates will enjoy the illumination of the falls.

A consecration Communion service will be held at Asbury-Delaware Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon, which will close the conference.

Registration is $3 and this includes the falls trip and meal, plus registration supplies. Special rates are being made at the Hotel Lafayette, Buffalo, for delegates attending the conference.

This is the 17th annual Christian Youth Conference. If any young people of the churches of Kingston are interested, detailed information may be received from Miss Lenora M. Drais of St. James Methodist Church, phone 3030.

Theatre Group Increases Scope

The Kingston Theatre Association, formerly the Ulster County Theatre Association, which is now affiliated with the Department of Recreation, has increased materially the scope of its activities during the past few months and plans are now under way to broaden the work of the group even more until every type of activity directly connected with the theatre is included.

At the present time many members of the association are busy at various projects. A one act workshop play which already has been presented at a regular meeting of the Theatre Association is scheduled for presentation at the NYA Resident Center at Lake Hill on Friday of this week. Several members of the dramatic group are assisting with the dramatic program at one of the local churches.

One of the more successful groups of the theatre association is the poetry appreciation class which meets every second Monday under the direction of Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom. It is expected that a class in modern dancing will soon be established as part of the program. This class will be under direction of Miss Helen Bradburn.

Preliminary work on the big three-act production is already being done with a reading committee busy in the selection of some outstanding play to be presented this season. Announcement of the play will be made shortly.

The next meeting of the Kingston Theatre Association will be held Thursday evening, February 15, at 8:30 o'clock at the group's regular quarters in the Downtown Center, at 97 Broadway. An interesting program is being set up and all those interested in any phase of dramatics are urged to attend.

construction actually begins that the ships will be superior to those of other nations.

"The committee is of the opinion that definite advantage will be secured by making the new capital ships and the additional cruisers not equal to, but superior to, any pending foreign construction," the committee asserted.

As a foremost nation of the world, the United States is charged with a high degree of responsibility for the maintenance of our peace. This responsibility requires a policy of construction which does not confine itself to imitation of other nations.

"Its economic strength and its position of leadership among the nations of the world demand such ships and in such numbers as will maintain a preponderance of power and thus insure the security and peace of the United States."

Pictures to Be Lecture Subject

On Wednesday, February 21, beginning at 2 p. m. at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium there will be an illustrated lecture on "Pictures in the Home," given by Mrs. Charlotte B. Robinson, specialist from Cornell University.

Mrs. Robinson will use pictures and colored slides to illustrate her talk on points to consider in choosing and hanging of pictures. All are invited to attend this meeting.

Tuesday, February 27, there will be a meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston, on "The Homemaker and Her Markets," Mrs. Lucille Williamson, specialist from Cornell University, will speak at the morning session, beginning at 10:30 o'clock. Her subject will be "Getting Facts for Family Buying." At 2 o'clock there will be a talk on "Practical Stock of Goods," given by local merchants.

These conferences are the second series planned to help members of all the women's educational organizations of the county discuss with local merchants, store workers, producers and specialists individual and public marketing problems.

These meetings are being sponsored by the Ulster County Home Bureau.

Four Generations at Banquet

The Men's Club of the St. James Methodist Church held its second annual Father and Son banquet in the church hall last night. Attending the dinner were four generations of the Freese family. Seated above, are, in left to right order: Jesse R. Freese, Albert R. Freese, and Donald E. Freese. Edgar Freese is serving.

of Lincoln's environment, born in humble surroundings in Kentucky 131 years ago, facing poverty much greater than that which those on relief have to contend with and who surmounted unequalled contended with by few and surpassed by none.

There was nothing about Lincoln to attract loyalty or admiration and to make him stand out as a leader, Dr. Henry said, noting that he was poor, lacking natural beauty, uncouth and uncultured. He did not have even the advantage of a district school, his education being comprised in one year at a backwoods school and he walked 25 miles to borrow his first law book.

Lincoln's achievement was compared with those of other great figures of history—Moses, Joan of Arc, Demosthenes, Washington. Comment was made that Moses was great and outstanding among a nation of slaves, but Lincoln stood out in a generation whose leaders and notable men "had no apology to make to any generation in the history of the world."

Dr. Henry was particularly eloquent as he spoke of Lincoln's work for a reunited nation and then said that nothing has been said against the League of Nations that was not urged against the United States. He found the present another fateful hour in the history of the world and envisioned the need for a leader who would do for a federation of the nations what Lincoln did for the United States.

The speaker referred to Lincoln's great masterpiece, the Gettysburg address and the fact that while Edward Everett's address of 18,000 words was printed in full in the Tribune of that day, reference to Lincoln's speech, which followed, said that "Abraham Lincoln was a man who 'came in humility, never thinking of himself,' and yet who ham Lincoln made a few wandering remarks." Today, said the speaker, few have read Everett's address, but the words of Lincoln are known in every school in Christendom.

Lincoln was spoken of as a man who "came in humility, never thinking of himself," and yet who by his great character and actions accomplished more than did all of the great men, the recognized giants of his day.

Clipped from an exchange: "If nations would use their heads and get rid of their arms, they would soon get on their feet."

Kingston's Women Bowlers Who Lead 'B' Division

Baseball Rules Amended; Pitchers Get Extra Step

Belleair, Fla., Feb. 13 (AP)—Relief has been a long time a-coming for the baseball pitcher, and he has taken some hard knocks in the past 20 years, but the elders of the game at last are getting in a mood to help him stand off the batters.

At its meeting here yesterday the rules committee voted with only one dissenter to allow all of the pitchers in the country to rear back and taken another complete step as they deliver the ball. That is the first really important move toward helping the hurler that has been made since the rule-makers began abolishing freak deliveries back in 1919.

Opinion was widely divided, even among the members of the committee, whether the new rule would effect any great and immediate change. Several were doubtful that the present top pitchers would be able to employ the new freedom to advantage. But all agreed that it was a move toward harnessing the hitter, or at least toward giving the pitcher an even break.

Victory for Griffith
Adoption of the rules was a complete victory for Clark Griffith, veteran manager of the Washington Senators, who for several years has been carrying on a loud and vigorous campaign for pitchers' rights.

The new rule, adopted in the course of a long session during which the rule makers fused inordinately and Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis fidgeted and drowsed in the presiding chair, will permit the pitcher almost complete freedom with one leg. There's only one thing he can't do now, and that is to step side-wise.

Whereas the harassed hurler previously has had to stand with both legs on the rubber, he now (in case of a right-hander) can stretch his left leg far out behind him during his wind-up and take a long, complete stride as he swings through to deliver the ball.

The solons flatly rejected the repeated demand of President Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees that something be done about the intentional pass. The others declared that the moundman should retain his right to pass any batter he didn't want to pitch to. Quinn wanted the man so passed to get two bases.

President Ed Barrow of the Yankees wrote the committee suggesting that the batter be intentionally passed simply be left to trot down to first, thus saving the time required to throw four wide ones. This also is turned down.

Taking official cognizance of the fact for the first time, the committee decreed that no inning could be started after 11:50 p.

MEDWICKS SOAK UP SUNSHINE

New York, Feb. 13 (AP)—Tony Ferrara, young Mount Vernon welterweight, has replaced Maxie Berger of Montreal as opponent for Eddie Brink in tonight's eight-round bout at the Coliseum. Ferrara was signed yesterday after the Canadian reported he had injured a hand and would be unable to fight. Ernie Vigh of Newburgh faces Larry Kellum of Montana in the eight-round co-feature.

Jones Dairy Women Bowlers Take Lead In Journal Matches

The Jones Dairy girls' bowling team are in first place in the Class B division of the Journal-American Classic as the result of their 2,225 score registered in New York city Monday night. Evelyn Dolson led her teammates with a 588 triple.

Other members of the local team scored as follows: Evelyn Moore, 456; Adelaide Gilbert, 447; Evelyn Jones, 423; Bertha Schaller, 381.

This splendid showing made by the local girls boosts the percentages of the Mid-Hudson entries. Poughkeepsie's representatives are also leading in their divisions.

The matches are being staged at the Capital alleys in New York city, and the competition is scheduled to terminate February 29.

The Jones team returned home following its great exhibition last night as the members were not slated for any matches in the other events today.

Dog Fanciers Hold Ryder Cup Team Westminister Show Meets Texas' Best

New York, Feb. 13 (AP)—In a fantastic world of sharp-eyed judges, gawping humans, throat sprays, powder-puffs and eyebrow pencils the best examples of American dogdom are on parade—and a two-year-old nine-pound ball of fluff is the doggiest of them all.

The Westminster Kennel Club has seen many a story-book happening enliven its 64 shows, but none that was more thrilling than that which highlighted the opening of the three-day event in Madison Square Garden yesterday.

Just arrived from England, a magnificent sable Pekingese won the best of breed from another foreign champion believed almost unbeatable—and immediately became a prime choice to replace last year's Ch. Ferry Von Raufelsson of Giralda as best in show this year.

The newest sensation is Remenham Derri purchased by Mrs. Richard S. Quigley of Lock Haven, Pa., for a sum that guessers said might be as high as $7,500. Winner of a gold medal for being England's most vicious dog, Remenham Derri defeated Ch. Che Le of Matsons Catawba, often regarded as the best Pekingese ever to show in America.

Winner of the Saratoga gold cup, the Mrs. James M. Austin entry from old Westbury, N. Y., had had a string of phenomenal successes—until yesterday.

And it was only 24 hours before Westminster opened Monday morning that the winner arrived—after a bad three weeks in a stormy crossing.

But the precious Pekingese will have some terrific competition before Wednesday night's final judging for the prized best in show award. Those old repeaters, Ch. Normay Saddler, winner of 51 best in shows, took best of breed Monday in the fox terrier class; the beautifully coated Ch. My Own Brucie, the black cocker spaniel, again dominated his breed, just as he did last year, and Ch. Meadow Dallas, Feb. 13 (AP)—The winter golf trail led to Dallas today as the Ryder Cup team met Texas' best amateurs in a 36-hole charity match.

Byron Nelson, national open champion, who defeated Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., for the Texas open title at San Antonio yesterday, paired with Harold (Jug) McSpaden against Harry Todd, western amateur champion, and long John Barnum of Edinburg, a consistent tournament winner.

The professionals, whose Ryder Cup competition with England's outstanding pros was called off because of the war, receive a $1,500 guarantee and several cash awards. Their opponents get medals.

McSpaden blistered the Dallas Country Club course, scene of the matches, with a 68, four under par in practice.

Scotch foursmen were in order this morning and regular four-ball competition will start at 2 p. m. CST. The Nassau scoring systems will be used.

Nelson beat Hogan in an 18-hole playoff by a stroke for the Texas open crown. He shot a 70, one under par, his first round of golf out of the 60's in two years of the Texas open.

They had finished the regular 72 holes with 271 each, 13 strokes under par.

The national open champion collected $1,500 and Hogan got $750.

Wilmington, Del.—Joe Cox, 220, Cleveland, won over Gino Garibaldi, 218, St. Louis, 21-02, (Garibaldi disqualified).

Lark Draftsman, owned by Mrs. William duPont, Jr., of Bellevue, Del., again swept the field in the beagle competition.

The last three were all finalists in last year's show but they've got to watch out for an imported Pekingese that wouldn't make any of them a good meal.

Kingston High Five Will Play at Newburgh Tonight

Coach G. Warren Kias and his Kingston High School basketball squad go into enemy territory again this evening as they travel to Newburgh. The Maroon and White cagers are favorites.

The local warriors are expected to be followed to the Hilly City by several Maroon fans who have been lacking at previous tilts. A game with Kingston and Newburgh dishing it out always brings the students and followers of both schools to the front.

Besides the Kingston-Newburgh tussle the DUSO League will see action on two other fronts. In Port Jervis the Red and Black Raiders will entertain Ellenville which is not a very important contest. But out in Monticello the Liberty Redskins will be looking for another victory which will help them keep on the trail of the Kingston cagers. Port Jervis and Liberty will be on the heavy side of the odds to take these games.

When Kingston and Newburgh met at the auditorium in the first tussle the Stevedores nearly thumped the Kiasmen in a thrilling 27 to 25 game. Kingston just pulled out in front in the closing seconds after the losers had piled up a good lead in the early quarters. The boys from the downriver school are again expected to push Kingston to the limit in an attempt to snap the locals' eight-game winning streak.

Coach Kias will stick with Harry Flowers, Bob Curran, Captain Ray Lindhorst, Milt Dubin and Bill Strubel. All of these cohorts have been playing steady ball to date and should continue on the winning side of the victory ledger. The Maroon mentor may also count on Joe Benjamin, Bill Relyea and Ed Allen for duty.

Coach Govey of the Newburgh forces will probably open with Sammy Inzerla, Ray Ormsby, Russ Merritt, Norm Lawrence and Mike Capoletti. Kohler and Pilus, the latter a brother of the famous Ed Pilus, will be ready for reserve action.

The probable lineups:
Kingston RF—Flowers
LF—Curran
C—Lindhorst
RG—Dubin
LG—Strubel
Newburgh Inzerla
Ormsby
Merritt
Lawrence
Capoletti

Galento's Boast? Five Rounds, Easy

Orange, N. J., Feb. 13 (AP)—Tony Galento, who says his eyes "are 100 per cent," offered to bet anyone $10,000 today that he'll stop Joe Louis in five rounds if they meet in July for the world's heavyweight boxing championship.

Promoter Mike Jacobs said at Miami last night a July Louis-Galento bout was one of three title defense fights tentatively planned for the champion.

Galento, spied a rumor he was going blind, saying he'd match his eyesight with that of anyone.

At first, the Beer Barrel Piker wanted Louis, his managers or his friends to take the bet, but he changed his mind and opened the offer "to anyone who'll give me the prevailing odds."

"Louis is through, finished," he said. "He couldn't hurt (Arturo) Godoy last Friday night. Godoy's ears and mouth were split after our six-round fight on the Louis-Braddock card in Chicago two summers ago. I wasn't even scratched."

Godoy gained the decision over Galento in that fight, but the round barkeep tossed off the loss by saying the referee was "in a fog" at the end of the bout.

When Galento was introduced from the Madison Square Garden ring last Friday night he struck his head against a microphone and some sports experts said that indicated his eyesight might be bad.

"The crowd give me such an ovation. I was excited," Galento explained. "When I swung my head around I didn't know the microphone was so low. Anyone could hit their head like that."

Lamb Wins Famed Diamond Trophy

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 13 (AP)—Delbert Lamb, speedy Milwaukee, Wis., skater, has won his first major speed skating crown—the famed Lake Placid diamond trophy.

Tied with Charles Leighton of Minneapolis as the speedsters entered the final day of the meet yesterday, Lamb won the half-mile and finished second in the three-mile to cop top honors. Leighton finished second with Bob Heckenbach, Chicago, third.
